Langford Honors 'Grand Old Lady'

Hundreds of Athletes Parade in Big Stadium

Colorfully-Garbed Teams Hailed by Crowd of 16,000

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Staff Reporter

EMPIRE STADIUM, VANCOUVER—The 1954 British Empire Games was officially opened last night in a ceremonial spectacle which combined pomp and splendor with dignity.

Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis declared the games open with a brief message of good cheer and congratulations and a message from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

A crowd of 16,000, less than anticipated by B.E.G. officials, didn't fill the huge stadium, but those who were there greeted the hundreds of athletes in the grand parade with cheers.

As each contingent marched past the reviewing stand where Lord Alexander was seated with Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Sir Arthur Porritt, Mayor Fred Hume, and other games officials, the crowd signified its enthusiastic approval and welcome.

BREATHTAKING SCENE

The vari-colored blazers, the band, the military markers, the flags and the pageantry of the massed athletes was breathtaking.

Every group was cheered, from the single weight-lifter entry from Barbados to the 221-strong Canadian team marching in scarlet splendor around the brand new track.

The significance of the common purpose and meeting ground of the athletes from 24 countries was evident while the individuality of custom and race remained. The 10-man Fijian team wore green blazers over their distinctive white native skirts.

The Northern Ireland team got a big hand as they paraded by in green blazers, as might be expected, and a good-natured chuckle ran through the crowd when they were followed by the colored Nigerian team—also in green blazers.

OATH GIVEN

Shortly after Lord Alexander declared the games open, Canada's team captain Bill Parnell mounted the tribune of honor and gave the oath on behalf of all the athletes. With his left hand raised and his right hand holding the Canadian flag he said:

"We declare that we will take part in the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954 in the spirit of true sportmanship recognizing the rules which govern them and desirous of participating in them for the honor of our Commonwealth and Empire and for the glory of sport."

The spectacular RCAF "fly-past" which took place early in the ceremony turned into a real "beat up" as high-tailing Mustangs and Vampires streaked over the new stadium with feet to spare. The roaring aircraft rattled windows and the wail of the Vampires caused the huge crowd to grasp and clasp their hands to their ears.

The ceremony opened at 8 p.m. when a tri-service guard of honor drew up before the reviewing stand and was inspected by Lord Alexander, dressed in a grey business suit and bareheaded.

The smart red-coated RCMP band then led the lengthy parade of athletes into the stadium. They marched past the reviewing stand and main grandstand, each contingent led by a military placard bearer, the placard naming the country from which each team came.

The teams circled the track, then took up positions facing the stand in marked-off sections of the infield, where they stood for the remainder of the ceremony.

During the official opening speech, the blazer-clad flag bearer of each team stood in a large semi-circle facing the royal box where Lord Alexander delivered his opening message.

The special B.E.G. flag then was raised to the top of the stadium flag pole and five-gun field battery fired the B.E.G. salute. On the first salvo a flock of pigeons was released. The birds circled the stadium almost as if they had been rehearsed and then seemed to dip in salute and head off to their homing distinction.

ANTHEM SUNG

After Bill Parnell took the games oath, the 16,000 people rose and sang "God Save the Queen," which was played by the RCMP band.

The parade flag bearers then returned to their teams and the more than 600 athletes marched out of the stadium to the cheers and standing applause of the huge assembly.

The perfect execution of the whole ceremony, the simple dignity of Lord Alexander's words, the meeting in one stadium of representatives of 24 countries, the sincerity of the oath and the Queen's message made the whole ceremony genuinely moving.

One hardened newspaper man who had covered sports in all parts of the world for many years told this reporter that it took a lot to bring a lump to his throat but the B.E.G. ceremony did it.

When the opening ceremony had concluded the crowd was treated to a two-hour military tattoo, a spectacular display of precision band marching, an exciting naval gun race, formation and acrobatic motorcycle riding and the famed RCN sunset ceremony, all of which were witnessed last week by Victorians in the big Esquimalt previews.

Taking part in the complicated display of marching were 180 bandsmen from the bands of HMCS Naden, Princess Patricia Light Infantry, Calgary; the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Barriefield, and the RCAF, Edmonton.

While officials expressed some disappointment with the crowd that turned up for the historic 1954 ceremony, they are confident that the keen competition expected in the biggest B.E.G. yet should keep the turnstiles spinning for the rest of the week.

But the real purpose of the games, the bringing together of national groups from all parts of the Commonwealth and Empire, has begun successfully.

Games Opened By Alexander

VANCOUVER (CP)—Here is a partial text of Lord Alexander's address opening the fifth British Empire Games.

For me, it is both an honor and a pleasure to have been invited to officially open the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954.

Twenty-four years ago, the first of these athletic meetings was held in Canada in 1930. Since then, they have been held in England, Australia and New Zealand, and now once again Canada is the host country.

This year, no less than 24 members of our Commonwealth family have entered teams which I think is a fair measure of the importance and popularity in which these games are held.

Furthermore, this is the first occasion that some of the smaller nations have competed and to them I extend a sincere welcome and express our warm appreciation of their presence among us.

It is occasions such as this, when members of our Commonwealth meet together in friendly rivalry, that the bonds which united us become further strengthened through a greater understanding of each other.

The role that sport can play in cementing friendships and in encouraging comradeship is, of course, immense. And amongst the great sports, none can do this better than that of athletics, which demand a high degree of physical fitness, courage to take punishment and skill in performance. And all this within the strict code of fair play and holding to the rules of the game.

Few deserve the respect and admiration of their fellow men more than the good sportsman. And we should take pride in the knowledge that there is no lack of good sportsmen in our Commonwealth of Nations to whatever race they may belong or from whatever part of the Empire they may come.

The visiting teams of famous athletes and their friends who have come from all parts of the world to see them perform cannot but be impressed by this fine new stadium specially built for the occasion, and the magnificent scenery which surrounds it.

So on behalf of the visitors I should like to express our warm appreciation and sincere congratulations to Mr. Stanley Smith and his staff, together with all those who have helped to organize this grand show. A show which, if I may say so, is an excellent example of Canada's genius for organization.

To the visiting teams of Commonwealth athletes, I can say that we spectators are eagerly looking forward to a great week of good sport and to wish them individually and collectively a happy time, the best of luck and every success.

This morning, since I knew that you would wish it, I sent on your behalf a loyal message to Her Majesty the Queen. I will read what I said:

"On the occasion of the opening of the Fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games in Vancouver, the representatives of the 24 Empire countries assembled here — competitors and officials and spectators alike — send Your Majesty their loyal greetings.

"No effort will be spared to fulfil the ideal of these games — the further cementing of the bond of Empire through the medium of sport —and we would wish to convey to Your Majesty our great appreciation of the eagerly awaited arrival of the Duke of Edinburgh in our midst next week."

I am happy to say that Her Majesty has sent a most gracious and inspiring reply, which I will read to you:

"I greatly appreciate message of loyal greetings which you have sent me on behalf of competitors, officials and spectators assembled at the opening of the fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games and the countries taking part in them. Please convey to all gathered at the opening my sincere thanks for their loyal assurances and my best wishes for success in the games. Elizabeth R."

Duke Prefers Scotch

OTTAWA (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh Friday absorbed a small but harmless amount of atomic radiation, flew a Canadian-designed bush plane and drank a scotch-and-water with reporters.

At Canada's atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., the duke peered down a hole in the NRX atomic furnace, from which a small amount of radiation was issuing.

Scientists said this amount of radiation could be stood indefinitely by anyone.

TAKES CONTROL

The duke flew the 120 miles to Chalk River. On the way back he took over the pilot's controls for 30 minutes in a float-equipped Otter, a small bush plane.

After his return, he had tea in the officers' mess at the RCAF station in suburban Rockcliffe and then went to the House of Commons.

There he was met by Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin, Senate Speaker Wishart Robertson and Norman Campbell, president of the parliamentary press gallery.

STAYS LONGER

His schedule called for a 40-minute call on the press gallery but he stayed more than an hour chatting with reporters.

The duke turned down a proffered glass of champagne and had a scotch instead. Some of the reporters drank the champagne.

Friday night, Governor-General Vincent Massey gave a dinner in honor of the duke.

Some 40 guests were invited, including Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe.

Daredevil Defies Death To Shoot Niagara Rapids

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Major Lloyd Hill shot the dangerous Niagara rapids Friday in a steel barrel.

After the run through the gorge, he opened the lid of the gleaming 540-pound cylinder, which was then making wide circles in the swirling green-blue waters of the giant whirlpool.

"I made it," he shouted triumphantly.

Later Ontario provincial police took the daredevil Hill into temporary custody. They released him after questioning the river man about his mile-long trip through the turbulent rapids.

NO CHARGES LAID

No charges were laid although the constable who had taken Hill into custody when he stepped out of his barrel, said a charge would be laid.

After Hill climbed out of his odd craft, the 35-year-old ex-paratrooper was escorted 165 feet up the side of the gorge to a waiting police car, taken to Niagara Falls police station and lodged in a cell.

THOUSANDS CHEER

A cheer went up from thousands of vacationists who gathered to watch Hill's death-defying voyage.

He traveled a mile from the up-river spot where he entered the water. Lying on a webbing hammock, braced by two steel rods, he was shaken by the tremendous buffeting of the rapids. Hill was protected only by a crash-helmet and the barrel's thin shell of 1/16-inch thick steel plates with no inner lining or air space—lightest barrel ever to assail the rapids.

ELUDES COPS

Hill eluded police, who scanned the sides of the rocky gorge with binoculars. They would have attempted to discourage him from taking the ride.

The barrel, eight feet long and three feet wide, had been removed from the Toronto welding shop where it was made this week and lowered down the gorge Thursday night to a spot chosen by Hill and a few friends.

Hills' assistants braved the 70-foot climb down the precipitous rock face in darkness.

NICE TIME OF YEAR

Hill's only explanation for his decision to risk everything on the Niagara was:

"It's a nice time of year to take a barrel trip."

Industrial Failure Hits Better Life

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet press reports Friday indicate that the Kremlin's much-publicized plan to give the Russian people more of the good things of life has hit serious snags.

Front-page editorials in most of the principal Moscow newspapers express concern lest the new drive to boost production of agriculture and consumer goods should be jeopardized by failure of heavy industry to produce sufficient iron and steel.

The iron and steel industry was scored for "serious shortcomings" in output, on the growth of which, says the Soviet newspapers, "the progress of the entire economy depends."

This statement was interpreted here as implying that unless iron and steel output is quickly boosted and maintained at a "safe" level, recent promises of a better life for the Soviet people cannot be fully implemented.

Island Man Dies in Crash

A Vancouver Island man was instantly killed last night when his car went out of control on the Alberni Highway, near Parksville.

Johannes Viking Hannula, aged about 40, of Errington, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Violet Hannula of Victoria.

RCMP said Hannual's car turned over several times after it went out of control.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced by Westwood Funeral Home in Nanaimo.

Avalanche At Banff Kills Four

LAKE LOUISE, Alta. (CP)—Four Mexican tourists were killed Friday when an avalanche swept down Victoria glacier in the Canadian Rockies, about 40 miles northwest of Banff.

Six women and a man were reported in the party engulfed by a huge mass of ice and snow which swept down from the south peak of the glacier.

No names were immediately available as rescue parties recovered four bodies.

A rescue party made contact with the survivors about four hours after the accident happened.

Observers said the Mexicans' rope broke and when the avalanche had passed only three of the seven could be seen.

The party had no guide.

It was believed the party was residing at Banff.

Flanders Called Red Cat's-Paw

Senate Asked To Rap McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amid tense scenes, Sen. Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vt.) Friday night demanded formal senate condemnation of the conduct of Sen. Joseph McCarthy — and was quickly accused by a McCarthy backer of being an unwitting cat's paw for the Communist party.

The counter-charge was made by Sen. Everett Dirksen (Rep., Ill.) who declared Flanders, the Communists and Americans for Democratic Action form a "great multitude marching with one persecution complex against a humble senator."

Flanders' censure resolution—first of its kind in 25 years—declared McCarthy's tactics tend to "bring the senate into disrepute." And he told the senate that McCarthy can no more be appeased than could Hitler or the Kremlin.

Sen. William Knowland, the Republican senate leader, quickly protested that this was no way to handle the issue; that "what is properly a judicial decision will be made at white heat in a political body."

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) said the approach represented in the Flanders resolution smacked of "mob rule." Though McCarthy has bean guilty of "political thuggery," Morse said, the proper way to handle him is to present a real bill of particulars and try him before the bar of the senate before congress adjourns.

OUT TO GET HIM

Dirksen said Flanders was the unsuspecting victim of forces out to "liquidate" McCarthy.

"Who got in bed with the distinguished senator from Vermont?" Dirksen asked. "The Communist party got in bed with him.

"Senator Flanders and the Daily Worker are on the same side."

Dirksen said Communist publications frequently used the word "Hitler" in connection with McCarthy, and noted that Flanders and Sen. Herbert Lehman (Dem., Lib. N.Y.) also had spoken of Hitler in denouncing McCarthy.

When Dirksen spoke of a great multitude against "a humble senator," there was a burst of laughter from spectators.

McCarthy, grinning, held up thumb and forefinger in an "OK" sign to Dirksen.

Debate on the motion was adjourned.

Senator Flanders' resolution reads:

"Resolved, that the conduct of the senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy, is unbecoming a member of the United States Senate, is contrary to senatorial traditions, and tends to bring the senate into disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

In presenting it Flanders made a speech charging that McCarthy, "however informally," is on the same grounds as "fifth amendment Communists" for having refused to answer questions raised months ago about his integrity and financial affairs.

Coldwell Chief Again

EDMONTON (CP)—M. J. Coldwell was elected by acclamation Friday as president and national leader of the CCF party for his seventh consecutive term.

No Use Presenting Brief, Says Patton

City Solicitor A. J. Patton advised council yesterday it is little use for the city to present a brief to the Public Utilities Commission opposing the B.C. Electric Railway Co. application for increase in bus fares.

Council voted two weeks ago to oppose the increases.

In a letter to council yesterday, Mr. Patton said he and City Manager Cecil Wyatt had been told by PUC chairman Percy George that commission studies of B.C. Electric finances could not be examined by the city before the hearing August 5.

"The commission chairman," stated Mr. Patton, "said the commission would not have a report until after the hearing, it could do nothing to help the city at this time, nor would it be allowed to do so at a later date, as laid down by its procedure."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

EVER since I saw a news picture of the British lawn bowling team at the Empire Games I have been wondering what other unlikely sport is on the program.

I could easily find out by reading the official handbook, but that would spoil the fun.

I know lawn bowling is a fine sport. I know Drake finished his game of bowls before he took on the Spaniards. Those pesky Spaniards could have saved everyone much trouble if they had sent a lawn bowling team to England instead of an Armada. Of course the English would have beaten them all the same.

* * *

Lawn bowling is a noble game, I'm sure, but I just can't associate it with the roar of the crowds and the thrill of a contest between nations. I'm trying hard, but I can't.

Instead of the packed stadium, the thunder of applause, lawn bowling puts me in mind of subdued conversation, the clink of teacups and old men puffing twisted pipes.

* * *

Canada's old gold medal at the Olympic Games was won for trap-shooting, a sport that does not sound like Olympic games material any more than lawn bowling sounds like Empire Games material.

If they have trap-shooting, they may well have crap-shooting too. Many people claim that crap is a game of skill. So if you hear cries of "Sebben come elebben," "Natch me, dice," "Babbeh needs new shoes," arising from a group of athletes kneeling on the turf at Empire Stadium, you'll know that the crap-game finals are being played off.

The winner will get the stadium, if he guarantees to take it away when he goes home.

One good thing about having non-athletic events at the Empire Games is that it gives us non-athletes something to shoot for. I have never played lawn bowls, but with a little mental effort I can conjure up a day-dream in which I am bowling for Canada in the Empire Games.

On the other hand, I just cannot raise a mind-picture of myself running the mile. Not even my imagination is that athletic.

The way is now open for some other mild and pleasant sports to sneak into the Empire Games card, shove ha'penny, darts, beer-drinking, clam-eating, checkers, arm-wrestling and polo matches for centaurs.

Marian Congress To Draw 1,000,000

CAP DE LA MADELEINE, Que. (CP) — Work is going ahead feverishly on preparations for a 10-day Marian Congress, expected to attract more than 1,000,000 Roman Catholics to a humble shrine in this industrial community.

The congress will open Thursday and will close amid religious pomp and ceremony Sunday, August 15.

The 10-day period of religious demonstrations will climax Marian Year celebrations for Canadian Roman Catholics. Many Roman Catholics from the United States are expected to join in the ceremonies, planned as a special tribute to the Mother of God.

MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Pope Pius XII asked Roman Catholics the world over during 1954 to mark the 100th anniversary of the proclamation of the dogma of the Virgin Mary's Immaculate Conception.

The congress will also mark the 50th anniversary of the crowning of a statue of Our Lady of the Rosary at the shrine.

The crowning ceremony will be repeated by a personal representative of the pope—Valerius Cardinal Valeri—at a closing session of the congress. James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto and Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal will witness the crowning.

Special trains are scheduled to bring the pilgrims here from all parts of Canada. More than 12,000 rooms have been set aside in private homes to accommodate the visitors.

During the last three days of the congress, mass will be celebrated continuously. Fifty altars have been erected and more than 175 confessionals will be at the disposal of pilgrims. Communion railings totaling 1,050 feet in length have been erected.

Victory Forecast For PCs

HALIFAX (CP) — National president George Hees of the Progressive Conservative Association said Friday the Progressive Conservatives are "likely" to win Nova Scotia's next provincial election.

In an interview at the end of a three-week familiarization trip through Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, Mr. Hees said "there's an excellent chance" of the two other provinces going Conservative also.

Next election, he said, "there's a likelihood the PCs will win, provincially in Nova Scotia, and a number of seats will go federally as well."

Mr. Hees will make a familiarization tour of the west in the fall.

Halibut Fleet Preparing

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Halibut fishermen are mending lines and loading bait for an eight-day reopening of the Halibut season August 1. Department of Fisheries said a "fairly strong" fleet will be on the grounds.

India, Portugal Continue Feud

NEW DELHI (AP)—Portugal Friday ordered Indian consular officials to leave Portuguese Goa, on India's west coast, by Saturday. India retaliated with walking papers for the Portuguese consul-general and consul at Bombay.

The exchange was the latest chapter in the bitter dispute over the 1,537 square miles of Portuguese territory scattered along the west coast. Goa, a district of 1,348 square miles and 541,000 people, 250 miles south of Bombay, is the most important.

Ships Leave for Arctic Today On Extensive Sea-Supply Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Three heavily-laden ships sail from Quebec City Saturday bound for the Arctic on what is billed as "the most extensive sea-supply operation ever attempted by Canada in peacetime."

They will be joined in the north by two more vessels in the task of carrying food, fuel, medicine and other supplies to weather stations and other outposts in the Arctic archipelago. The operation has been officially named "Nors 1."

Toughest task has been given the convoy's flagship, the newest and most powerful government icebreaker, the d'Iberville.

She will try what no other Canadian ship has done—to reach the joint Canada-U.S. weather station at Eureka, 700 miles from the North Pole on the west coast of Ellesmere Island.

She will time her dash from Resolute, some 400 miles further south, to reach the ice-clogged channel west of Ellesmere in the brief period when ice conditions will be easiest.

The five vessels will deliver more than 4,000 tons of supplies for the five weather stations operated by Canada and the U.S.

Special landing craft will put cargo on the beaches at Resolute, Eureka and Padloping, on the east of Baffin Island.

The weather stations are at Resolute, Eureka, Alert, Mould Bay and Isachsen. The last three will be supplied by air since they are not readily accessible by sea. The northwesternmost is Alert, 550 miles from the pole.

Leaving Quebec City with the d'Iberville will be the freighter Gander Bay and the tanker Maruba, which have loaded 1,570 tons of cargo and 1,887 tons of diesel oil and gasoline.

They will be joined at the entrance to Hudson Strait by the government icebreaker N. B. McLean. The Arctic supply ship C. D. Howe, which left Montreal, June 26, to supply outposts along the Hudson Strait, will meet the convoy at Resolute, August 13.

More than 3,600 tons of supplies and fuel are to be landed at Resolute within a few days. A crew of 50 stevedores from Montreal will work on the round-the-clock operation.

When that is finished, Capt. C. A. Caron and the d'Iberville will attempt the voyage north to Eureka with 300 tons of supplies. If the outpost can't be reached, the supplies will be returned to Resolute and flown in later by RCAF airlift.

The Husband Who Wasn't There

(Copyright, 1954, William G. Bogart. Illustrations copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Lou Townley sat down beside me and her left hand rested lightly on my knee.

"Steve, honey," she said throatily, "you've changed. You're hard and you're bitter. You were always a big rough guy. But never like this." She looked at me sideways. "Am I so different? Don't you care any more?" She was close to me, her hand still on my knee, her lithe figure separated from me only by the thinness of her gown.

I was feeling the liquor and was wondering what hours her husband kept at the office. I was aware of Louella Townley's eyes watching me curiously.

Standing in front of her, I said harshly, "After all, you're married. Things are different. Why didn't you leave me alone? Why bother calling me at the office? What do you think I am, anyway? I've got a heart and lungs and there's blood in me. I tick inside." I snapped my fingers before her lovely face. "I tell myself it was swell and terrific and all that, but now the lady's married and you forget her. She's private property. Go along and be a private detective, Steve Morgan, and forget all about Lou. She's not for you, chum."

"Steve!" She was also on her feet now. Very close to me. Hands pressed against my chest and the enticing fragrance of her all mixed up with the burn of the liquor. "Steve, darling. I'm trying to tell you. Dave and I haven't lived to gether for a year—."

"Furthermore—" I stopped. I frowned down at her. She was tall, but I still had to look down into her upturned face.

"I'm trying to tell you," she said. "It never worked out, Steve. Dave and I are separated. It's all over."

Her hands slid beneath my arms. She held herself tight against me. "You haven't even kissed me," she said softly.

I put my arms over hers. I tilted her head back and my fingers were lost in her tawny hair. Her warm lips came up and for a long moment there was only the delicate hum of the air-conditioning unit.

Finally she broke away and took a moment getting her breath. "That's better, you big hard guy."

I felt like I was rocking when I let go of her. Maybe I was.

"I'd heard, Steve, that you'd gone back to operating your own detective agency. That's why I called you," Lou said.

She wanted something. I should have known.

"I called you because there is no one else I can turn to, darling."

I still didn't say anything.

"Dave has disappeared," she announced.

She was sitting down again, but on the edge of the chair. There was tenseness in her.

"You said you hadn't seen him in a year."

She shook her head. "I didn't say that. I said we hadn't lived together in a year. Naturally, I've seen him. I could not afford to let anyone know the way it was, especially business acquaintances. You know how it is when you're dealing with ad agency people. They're touchy as racehorses at the post. None of them guessed that Dave and I—"

"He disappeared?" I said.

She nodded. "A week ago. I've checked everywhere. There's no trace of him at all!"

I grinned a little. "Did he walk out on you, pet?"

Abruptly she was on her feet again. She walked to a tier table and mashed out her cigarette. Her eyes had darkened.

She snapped. "That's one of the things I want to know! If he's walking out, I'm not giving him the opportunity to divorce me. If divorce is what he wants, it's going to be the other way around. Nobody's making a fool out of me!"

Mrs. Sinkins Crowded Out?

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The early pinks, such as Mrs. Sinkins and White Lady, have now finished flowering, and if they have been planted in the same position for three years or more, the chances are the clumps are now overcrowded and require dividing.

First, clip off all the faded flower heads. Then ease the clumps out of the soil carefully with a digging fork and shake off the excess soil.

Rather than cutting into the plant, the clump is best torn apart with the fingers into pieces about half the size of the palm of your hand. From the average three-year-old clump you'll get five or six nice tufts, each with a fair share of roots.

Before replanting, dig over the site a foot deep, incorporating half a bucketful of old manure or compost and a cupful of pulverized limestone a square yard.

If you don't have limestone handy, you can use ordinary hydrated lime, but cut the amount in half. Don't mix the lime and manure together beforehead, as this releases valuable nitrogen to the air.

Set your little clumps of pinks in six inches apart, and water them in with a few drops of vitamin B1 in the watering can.

If you have clumps of pinks not yet ready for moving, you can give them a treat and encourage the formation of a lot of new roots by top dressing them with a gritty mixture of one-half good garden loam and one-half pulverized limestone.

Work the mixture well in under the sprawling outer shoots to encourage a more upright habit of growth, and sprinkle a little over the crowns in the centre of the clump as well.

When tuberous begonias are grown indoors, they will often develop the habit of dropping their buds before they open for any one of a number of causes—too much or too little water, drafts, lack of atmospheric moisture, or just through sheer perversity.

With outdoor begonias, however, the most common cause of bud dropping is a shortage of potash, the great tissue former and health regulator.

As a safeguard against this pernicious habit, it is a good idea to scratch some wood ashes from the fireplace or the garden bonfire into the soil around each plant. They'll take 1½ cupfuls of fine, flaky ash per plant, measured as you would with sifted flour—not compressed in the cup.

If you are growing cordon or espalier-trained apples on wires or against a wall, it is a good idea to hit them hard occasionally with a forceful stream of water from the hose. This breaks off stunted and diseased fruit and leaves, and freshens up the healthy growth.

Its national convention gave unanimous approval to a resolution urging the federal government to call for a meeting of the UN security council to determine whether there has been a violation of the UN charter.

Atomic Materials Misused?

Huge Rewards Urged To Halt 'A-Traffic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Friday proposed offering rewards of up to $500,000 for tips on illicit traffic in atomic materials and weapons in the United States.

Brownell said information was needed on any possible smuggling or secret manufacture of atomic materials in the U.S.

He suggested offering the rewards not only to American citizens, but also to aliens living abroad. As an extra bonus, he added to cash, the aliens also would get asylum in the U.S. for themselves and their families "for permanent residence without regard to their inadmissibility under any other laws and regulations.

Brownell submitted the plan in the form of proposed bills sent to Vice-President Richard Nixon and House of Representatives Speaker Joseph Martin for introduction in Congress.

Commentator Team-and-a-Half Late

Victorians Get Good TV-Look-See at Games

BY IAN MacDONALD

As viewed from a choice front-row seat before a 21-inch television screen, the 1954 British Empire Games in Vancouver got off to a good start last night.

Victorians generally got a good TV look-see at the opening ceremonies, and the smog obligingly lifted for a glimpse of The Lions caught by [illegible] the skyline behind the new 35,000-seat stadium.

Reception was clear and the camera work fairly good, although the same could not be said for the commentary.

At the march-past of the athletes it was unfortunate and slightly perplexing to find the speaker describing a team that had passed before the camera about a team-and-a-half previously.

The "commentating" lacked cohesion and planning, although nothing unforeseen seemed to happen that necessitated "ad-libbing."

When the camera swung across the tri-service guard mounted for Earl Alexander of Tunis, who formally opened the games, the commentator lauded the naval and air force units but completely forgot the Royal Canadian Engineers drawn up in the middle slot.

But TV-viewers generally got a good over-all impression of the opening.

They had an excellent close-up of Lord Alexander giving his opening address, although his script unfortunately referred to Vancouver as nestling at the foot of the Rockies.

The televiewers also saw Bill Parnell, the Canadian team captain, take the athlete's oath on behalf of the competitors.

Homing pigeons released in the stadium were pictured dramatically as they wheeled around the arena before heading for their destinations.

The precision marching and instrumental talent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police band, as it led the parade of athletes, was marked to the Victorians sitting before a [illegible]

Athletes of various sizes and colors from 24 Commonwealth countries were shown in excellent close-ups. But the camera also highlighted the slight imperfections. The off-step marching apparent in several small teams was glaringly obvious in the large Canadian contingent.

U.K. Spurns Doctor, He Heads for Reds

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Joseph H. Cort, 26, American medical lecturer who was refused political asylum in Britain, left for Prague early today aboard the Communist Polish freighter Jaroslaw Dabrowski.

With him was his doctor wife, Rush, 28. They were bound for Czechoslovakia — via Poland — where they have gained political asylum "to carry on our medical research."

DRAFT-DODGER

Cort, who was a member of the Communist party in his student days, had been due to return to the United States today to face draft-dodging charges, after the British government refused to grant him residence in Britain.

River police later stopped the freighter at Woolwich reach, a few miles down the Thames, and went aboard. A Scotland yard spokesman said: "I cannot say whether anyone was taken off the ship, nor can I say why police boarded the vessel."

Trains Collide Head-On

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Some 35 persons were taken to hospital here Friday after an east-bound passenger train and a double-header pulp train collided head-on at nearby Glenwood Thursday night.

The engineer of the passenger train, Arnold Webber, suffered fractured ribs, when he jumped from the cab before the trains collided. His brakeman, Patrick Canning, suffered head injuries and a possible skull fracture when he jumped clear. All other injuries were minor.

Split, a city in Yugoslavia, was one of the great cities of the ancient Roman world.

Two Quads Die, Others Doing Well

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The wife of a $40-to-$50-a-week Negro plasterer gave birth Friday morning to quadruplets — a boy and three girls — but by nightfall two of the infants had died.

They were born to Mrs. Ruth Hurd, 25, at Magee Hospital. The boy, tentatively named Jerry Harvey, died seven hours and 25 minutes after his birth. Later in the day, a sister known only as "baby D" allso died.

The boy was the largest of the children, just over two pounds. Hospital officials estimated the total weight at about eight pounds.

Dr. Hilda Koreger, administrator of the hospital, said the two remaining girls were doing as well as could be expected for such small babies.

The father, Rudolph, 28, was astonished and overjoyed when the multiple birth occurred. But the deaths dimmed his happiness. The mother is doing well, the hospital said.

Testimony Ordered From Coffin's 'Wife'

PERCE, Que. (CP) — Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix Friday night turned down a defense plea and ordered Marion Petrie, common-law wife of Wilbert Coffin, into the witness box at the 43-year-old prospector's murder trial.

He ruled the defense had not been able to prove that Miss Petrie was Coffin's wife but only that she was his "mistress and concubine."

He said this did not entitle her to claim marital status in court.

In an effort to block her appearance as a crown witness, Francois Gravel, one of Coffin's lawyers, pleaded earlier in the day that Miss Petrie could not be forced to testify since the law allows communications between husband and wife to remain secret.

Mr. Justice Lacroix said it would be an outrage to the law if a common-law wife were given the privileges of a legal spouse.

Kinsman Says Club Rodeo Safe; SPCA Officer Seeks To Stop It

The Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen Club rodeo which may run into a court injunction is "very safe," club president Ed Bergeron said last night.

He spoke after Mrs. Florence Barr, 965 Portage Road, former president of the Vancouver SPCA and an official of the Victoria group, charged there is "extreme cruelty" at rodeos.

She said she is arranging to have people interested in fighting rodeos join her in applying for a court injunction to prevent the event, scheduled for September 30 to October 2.

Mr. Bergeron said the club's lawyer is reviewing the criminal code to see what action could be taken by the Barr group.

Until the lawyer gives his advice, he said, "We don't know what to think."

But he declared the rodeo will be closely policed by the American Rodeo Association and the Canadian Cowboys' Protective Association.

They make sure the corral has approved judges and timers, spurs are used only in certain regions, animals are not abused or mistreated, clothing and spurs are inspected and there is no rough riding, he said.

Mr. Bergeron said John Peth & Sons of Bull, Wash., who provide the animals, make sure there are no injuries.

Mr. Bergeron declared the success of a Fraser Valley rodeo prompted him to begin plans for an annual rodeo here.

The Victoria event will be the last 1954 rodeo in North America, and will bring the best cowboys on the continent here to decide the point championship for the year.

Mrs. Barr declined to name her supporters "for a couple of weeks."

She said the Victoria SPCA gathered hundreds of names on a petition to stop a rodeo at the Willows five or six years ago, and the Vancouver SPCA did the same thing in that city in 1937.

Mrs. Barr claimed rodeo animals receive bruises, cuts and even broken legs and broken necks.

She added section 542 of the criminal code prohibits causing unnecessary suffering to animals, "but no one enforces it."

If the male members of the family feel that salads are not filling enough and refer facetiously to them as "bunny food," then add some cheese, meat, fish or eggs. For instance, with a tossed salad, add strips or dices of meat, or with a potato salad a few cubes, or plenty of chopped eggs. Meat and eggs appeal to the men, especially.

Between-Hours Service

OF the suggestions advanced yet for a drawing together of transit operators and transit users in the Greater Victoria area those dealing with the reduction of fringe or duplicated routes and a slightly slower schedule in the non-rush hours of the day would seem to have the most practical bearing on the current issue. If, for instance, the Greater Victoria area had a radial route more or less around the circumference of what is known as the inner wards, that might help here as it does in other cities to remove some of the need for multiple routes from a central axis. The radial line, where it is practicable, acts as a feeder to the main transit routes. It has also the advantage that fewer buses need pass through the congested section of the community simultaneously.

There would appear to be point also in the suggestion that ordinary, intra-city bus service during the non-pressure hours of the day could be spaced at slightly longer intervals. Apart from commuters getting to and from their work, there is no great time pressure in the normal shopping tour of the average bus patron. Twenty minutes against fifteen minutes, or a margin of five minutes, would make relatively slight differences in the case of individuals, and yet it might mean a material saving in transit cost.

If a reduction of the period of service were to be invoked, however, care would need to be taken to see that the system would move rush-hour traffic at an improved tempo. One of the current complaints is that the rush traffic is not being cleared as expeditiously as it might be, and that standing-room only conditions are too prevalent for public comfort during peak hour traffic. It should be possible to adjust the machines available more closely to the state of the traffic, and to affect a little better clearance of the downtown area during the busy portions of the day. If that were done, some slight reduction of service in the between-hour periods would pass with less complaint.

While the public has not been advised of what has been passing in the series of private meetings held by the municipal transportation committee and other agencies on the one hand, nor what the franchise holders have been responding on the other, it is the public of course which will have the last decision in the case. If transit users consider the bargain fair they will use the system. If they do not, they will either take to their own cars or walk. Between the extremes there should be a fair and reasonable mean that can be worked out. Property values do not mean much without adequate transportation service, and transit lines cannot operate without satisfied patrons.

Remedy in Own Hands

THE Canadian Press in a dispatch from Ottawa this week stated that the federal government faces the possibility of ending the fiscal year at March 31 next with either a nominal surplus or a slight deficit. The reason given, presumably indirectly by treasury offices, was that current revenues do not seem to be keeping pace with demands. Actually in April and May the Dominion experienced a contemporary surplus of some $174,000,000 but, said the dispatch, that was $26,000,000 lower than in the corresponding period of last year. To infer from this that the government must end the year with a deficit is taking the step too fast.

If the balance is as it has been stated—and the June figures now reported are similar—the remedy rests in the government's own hands. There are eight months of the fiscal year still to run. The first quarter is only the opening of the period. If the four, and not two, months of the present fiscal period have followed a like trend, then the administration has had a clear warning. When the revenues of the country are lower than anticipated the sensible course would be to curtail at least the waste and the overlapping in governmental outlays per contra.

Ottawa does not need to add more civil servants to the booming payroll, when there is already in existence the largest ratio of public engagement in the history of Canada. Defense expenditures in at least their main divisions must continue if security is to be assured, but the extravagance which has attended some of these outlays can and should be sharply checked. Some items in the national budget, voted by Parliament and already committed, cannot well be curtailed. On the other side, however, some no doubt can. With any suggestion of lessening revenues the government at once becomes responsible to see to it that its own warning is heeded. Controllable costs can be cut.

Unhonored and Unsung

EVERYONE talks about the weather, a man once sapiently remarked, but no one does anything about it. He is unlikely ever to be able to either, as our own weatherman William Mackie reminded a local audience this week, if only because nature is still the master of such things. In itself this should serve to quiet the questing human ego but of course it won't any more than will it still the chorus of daily complaint. One would think sometimes a weatherman made the weather instead of simply recording it.

He prophesies also of course, and a boon to the world at large is the widespread weather forecast service no matter what would-be picknickers might think. It is this penchant for telling us today what it should be like tomorrow that makes the weatherman's lot not quite so happy, as Mr. Mackie smilingly but ruefully admitted. If the sun shines and the rain stays away all is forgiven, but let the reverse take place and the disappointed picknicker is sure to blame it on the forecast. And ironically the latter is correct far more oftener than it is wrong.

Human weather is even more fallible than the weather itself. The truth seems to be that men like Mr. Mackie are right four times out of five, a fact which frustrated picnickers will scorn since it is a statistic and statistics are only admitted when they are pleasing. Such is the lot of the Gonzales forecasters, unsung and unhonored unless the sun shines; just as though the sun alone was weather and nothing else. Yet one notes happily that Mr. Mackie seems to weather his own weather well. Nature may conspire to prevent him doing much about the elements themselves, but he warns us of their variations; and obviously much more correctly than we generally concede.

Interpreting the News

Power and Neighborliness

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

THE attitude of India and other Asiatic nations toward the United States has seldom been as well described as in the words of Ambassador George Allen that they fear "the Americans are about to acquire an empire in the Orient in a fit of absent mindedness."

* * *

The ambassador to New Delhi was telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that India and most other nations of the area would form an anti-communist security organization, only if it could originate among and be participated in only by themselves. They will not take the lead of, or directly associate themselves with the Western Powers, he said.

This business of an American advance toward control as well as leadership of the free world, not only Asia, has been a topic among historical philosophers ever since the Second World War.

* * *

The tendency of large parts of the world to come under the sway of one great power after another has long been noted. It has never become an actual fact, always being a matter of degree. But there has never been a nation so powerful as the United States. If it had wished in 1945, it could have subjugated the whole world. That is a fact which has affected its relations with every country ever since.

Because of it, Europe even accepted the Marshall Plan with some misgivings, and because of it Russia refused to let her sphere accept aid.

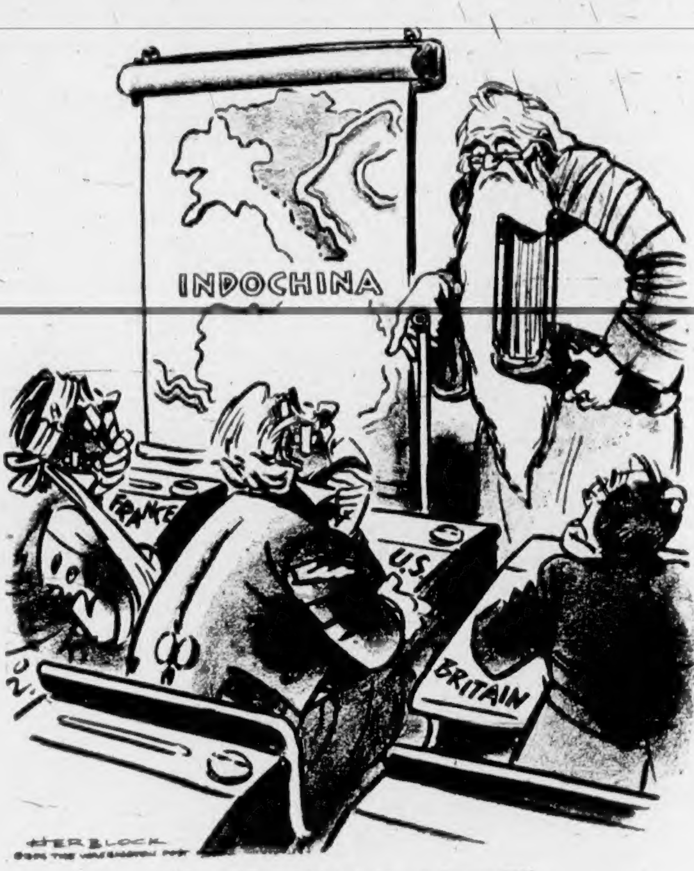
Not many have actually feared American intent. What they have feared is that the United States, if she became hard-pressed in her conflict with the Communist sphere might feel herself forced to tighten the strings which aid arrangements entail, requiring co-operation in a war and robbing other states of full freedom to act or not to act as they see fit.

* * *

America does feel that she must have a world after her own heart if she is to live in safety, just as does Russia, though the two countries are poles apart on the methods which they are willing to use to attain it.

But America did fall into her present position of leadership during a fit a absent-mindedness.

Power, once attained, becomes a terrific test of the character of the user. America thinks she wants neighbors, not satellites, but other peoples can hardly be blamed for wondering how far she might eventually be willing to go to enforce her conception of neighborliness.



"Now, class, what have we learned?"

Island Roads

By FRANK KELLEY

TAKING it in their stride, the people of Vancouver Island can be excused for any enthusiasm exhibited over the generous sum of money Public Works Minister Gaglardi recently announced had been set aside for the general improvement of Island highways during the 1954-55 period of financing government preferred public works. On the face of it, $3,200,000 looks like a lot of money for little old Vancouver Island which, by the way, contributes much more per capita to the general revenue of the province and in a wider variety of ways than the same number of their Mainland kin do.

While this has been the record for many years and Vancouver Island has had a real grievance in petitioning for more equitable consideration than it has received in the matter of public monies, particularly for highways. In comparison with most Mainland districts it would seem that the very essence of a legitimate grievance is now being fostered with respect to the Island itself. Mr. Gaglardi might have been more explicit with his announcement that the sum to be spent on Vancouver Island roads would be confined to existing roads within the boundaries of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo land grant; while for the much larger portion of the Island's more or less isolated communities apparently not one dollar has been set aside for roads.

* * *

Broken down, the figures disclose just where the money is to be spent. For instance, Alberni gets $332,000; Esquimalt, $374,578; Comox, $744,868; Cowichan-Newcastle, $368,419; Saanich, $244,000; Nanaimo-Islands, $637,840. Now, as the boundary of the land grant extends from Saanich Inlet westerly to Sheringham Point and thence northwesterly to Crown Mt., the only areas outside the grant included in the money appropriations are Esquimalt, Saanich and the Gulf Islands. In this planning no direct mention is made of a Renfrew Road or a thoroughfare from Alberni to Tofino, once touted as the terminus of the Trans-Canada Highway.

British Columbians have appreciated for a long time that their roadbuilding is expensive; but they also would appreciate that money available for this very necessary factor in development should be alloted on an equitable pattern, sans any consideration of political expediency with regard to the number of votes.

* * *

True, a lot of Vancouver Islanders will be delighted to see $3,200,000 spent on roads during the next 12 months; but it would give all of its residents more pleasure if some spending could be effected in parts of the Island where roadways might mean lands being taken up for homesteads, mineral prospects being developed and industries propagated. Opportunities for just such development exist, with roads the only thing lacking and most urgent.

Regarding this latest apportionment of public funds for roads, it would seem the old-timers of 50 years ago, as they saw what was developing were right when they said it was too bad the Dunsmuir interests had not been given all the Island in return for railway construction. Had it been so the Island from one end to the other would have been exploited. They had another unanswered query, too. It was why government, having disposed of the vast acreage and alienated it from the Crown, shouldn't have made the alienation absolute and let the owners of the grant finance and promote all its resources.

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

DESPITE the pessimism of bankers and opposition members of parliament a few months ago, the new National Housing Act is now starting to produce the results which Works Minister Winters expected of it.

The most important result is a strong indication that more housing units will be built this year than in 1953, when the country set a record with 102,409 housing starts and 96,839 completions.

In the first half of the year, from January to the end of June, starts were actually down from last year by more than three-quarters of 1 per cent. This was caused both by adverse weather and the fact that the new NHA didn't become effective until March 22.

The figures for June alone tells a different story. Housing starts last month were 3.2 per cent higher than in June of 1953, and Winters is confident that this rising trend will continue throughout the remainder of the year.

Moreover, completions in the first six months were a phenomenal 14.1 per cent higher than in the first half of 1953. They'll fall now, because of the many late starts this year, but in balance a new record seems to be in the making.

A major factor in this upsurge in home building at a time when some other kinds of construction are falling off is the participation of the banks in mortgage lending. In the 17 weeks following proclamation of the new NHA, 40 per cent of the applications to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for loan insurance came from the banks.

In the second quarter of this year the banks made more than 6,000 mortgage loans for a total value of $52,000,000, and they were only just starting. Before the year is out they likely will be lending dollar for dollar with the insurance companies to make up the $1,100,000,000 which the government estimates will be put into home construction this year.

* * *

The banks' excellent co-operation in making mortgage money available is one reason why some of them haven't been forced to drop their requirement that prospective borrowers show they can raise an extra $300 to $500 over the minimum down payments as set out in the NHA. Another reason is that the demand for loans is very strong despite this requirement.

The banks are entirely within their rights in demanding this "safety cushion." However, neither Winters nor parliament foresaw this development, and thus it circumvents parliament's wish that people be able to finance new homes with no more money than the minimum down payment specified in the act.

If in time this safety cushion proves a deterrent to home building which can be measured in reduced numbers of housing starts, corrective action by Ottawa will be almost certain. But not now. Things are going too well for the housing authorities to risk antagonizing the banks.

Picassos in Paris

(From New York Herald Tribune)

SINCE creative endeavor in Soviet Russia never is a case of art for art's sake, the Communists shouldn't have been too surprised that their Picasso exhibition in Paris landed them in the courts. The Russians try their best to send cultural emissaries throughout the word, as if to prove that even a Stakhanovite has his moments of relaxation. Musicians, ballet dancers, chess players—all emerge briefly into the outside world, which generally has the good sense to examine their artistry and ignore their propaganda.

The Picasso exhibition was something special. Russia possesses a large collection of early Picassos, not through any largesse of the pro-Communist painter, but because they were seized—without compensation—from a Russian industrialist who had the good judgment to flee the Bolshevik revolution. To demonstrate to the French that the Russians, too, are artists at heart, the early Picassos were placed on temporary exhibition in Paris. To the discomfort of the Soviet exhibitors, the heirs of the original owner, currently residing in Paris, demanded the return of the stolen paintings. Sacrificing art to necessity, the Russians hustled the Picassos to the sanctuary of their embassy. Now a French court, without judging the merits of the case, has decided that it lacks jurisdiction in the matter.

So the Russians are now free to reopen their exhibition. But it was a narrow escape for the Kremlin. The way of an artist is hard.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A survey shows that homes with children are those most likely to have television sets. This is true also of that other toy parents are ashamed to buy for themselves—the electric train.

* * *

It is reported that Americans have become accustomed to betting on the TV boxers according to whether they wear the white or the black trunks, without really knowing much about them. By the same token, just calling two political factions Red and anti-Red seems enough to make up some minds.

The magazines are full of tips for prospective home owners. Two useful ones to remember are that the ranch house should, if possible, be smaller than the lot, and the lawn somewhat larger than the power mower.

* * *

Modern lighting engineers tell the home owner just where to put the reading lamp in relation to the chair. The only trouble is that with modern furniture design how does one tell which is the lamp and which the chair?

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

SUMMER cottage resorts are inhabited mostly by families who have been going to the same cottage for years, even for two and three generations. Flibbertygibbets, of course, go to summer hotels, and wander from place to place over the years. And there are cottage resorts that consist of the type of house which is not quite fit for sentimental attachment, and is therefore rented to transient families that come and go, seldom returning.

But to those families who belong in the first category, those who year after year, and generation upon generation, return to the same dear spot regardless of peace or war, hard times or affluent, their summer cottage becomes a more beloved premises than any other home they live in, or have lived in. I know that in the war, when I was scared stiff and felt my final hour had come, it was the summer home with which I had been familiar since childhood that swam into my vision as I tried to hang onto some intimate recollection in whose company I might happily be bumped off.

It is therefore a sad thing that it is at the summer cottage that a man first becomes conscious of the decline of his vigor. For 40 or 50 years he has been jumping into the skiff from the dock in a certain natural, easy fashion. All of a sudden the day comes when he jumps in the accustomed way, and darn near breaks his neck. For nigh on half a century, he has been hauling the rowboat up on the dock to empty the rainwater out of it. You grab the skiff by the nose, give it an easy hoist, so set the nose on the dock's edge; then, laying back your weight, you haul. And ups a daisy she slides.

Then wow, comes the day when you give it a hoist, and it comes only half way. In astonishment, you give it a bigger hoist, and something goes snick in your spinal column. You call your daughter to come and help haul the skiff onto the wharf.

Paddles don't turn the same way they did; cookie tins, instead of going slick back up onto the kitchen shelf, miss by a foot, and come clattering down for all to hear.

In cities, you can get through the routine of the day without finding out what another year has done to you. But at the summer cottage, alas, that sweet beloved abode, everything around the place goes yah, yah, yah at you.

The Secret Power

BY JAMES E. ROPER
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON — A vivacious, dynamic Austrian woman is a secret power behind President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

She's the wife of the tough, swashbuckling warrior-statesman. You don't see her often, and you don't hear much about her.

But the comparatively young Mrs. Rhee supplies much of the drive that has given her 79-year-old husband his diplomatic and political power.

Mrs. Rhee, who arrived in Washington with the Korean Republic's president for a state visit, met her future husband by chance. It was in Geneva in 1933.

She was dining at the Hotel de Russie with her mother, the wife of a well-to-do Viennese iron merchant. The head waiter placed Mr. Rhee at the same table.

Syngman Rhee was in Geneva on one of his trips to promote Korean independence from the Japanese. To his surprise, he found that the pretty girl at his table—her name was Francesca Donner—knew all about the problems of Korea and had read articles that Rhee had written.

The course of diplomacy took Rhee back to the United States, but Miss Donner came to America to marry him. The wedding was in New York, October 8, 1934.

Throughout the years, Mrs. Rhee worked with and for her husband. She was just as stubborn, just as opinionaged as Rhee. And she was 23 years younger.

When Rhee took over the presidency in Seoul, she continued her role as his chief assistant. She dictated letters, received official callers and, according to diplomats and politicians who dealt with her, apparently made many government decisions.

To do this, she had to combat the Oriental feelings against women in public life.

This difficulty perhaps explains her reluctance to grant interviews or publicly show her influence. She appears on the surface to be only a loyal wife trying to live up to what Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt once wrote about her: "A beautiful spirit shines in her face."

But intimates will support the view of Robert T. Oliver, the biographer of President Rhee. Oliver wrote:

"Korea owes her more than ever will be understood."

Rail Dispute Climax Slated For August 11

MONTREAL (CP)—The lengthy dispute between the nation's railways and their non-operating employees will reach a climax August 11 with the announcement of the result of a nation-wide strike note.

Frank Hall, head of the unions' negotiating committee, said Friday a meeting of union leaders will be held here August 11, after which the outcome of the vote will be made known. Some 135,000 non-operating workers are eligible to cast ballots.

Results are arriving from locals of the 14 unions involved in the dispute, Mr. Hall said in an interview. He described the vote as "heavy" throughout the country.

COULD WALK OUT

If the employees vote in favor of the strike a walkout could be called at any time after the result is announced but further negotiations would not be precluded.

No wage demands are involved in the dispute but the unions are asking for fringe benefits which the railways say would cost $60,000,000 a year. Both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have said they are financially unable to meet the demands because of declining revenues.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday Parliament may have to meet in special session in August if strike action is taken.

Workers involved in the dispute constitute practically the same group that went on strike for nine days in 1950. That walkout ended when the government intervened and named an arbitrator whose decisions were final.

Produce Firm Chief To End Long Career

R. A. Lipsey, a businessman who had much of the world at his fingertips behind his desk for many years, retires from A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd. at noon today.

With the wholesale fruit and vegetable business 38 years, including [illegible] of the plant here, he will be succeeded by George Pears, who has been 17 years with the company in Victoria.

* * *

Dick Lipsey began as office boy with A. P. Slade and Company in Vancouver, where he received his basic training in office work and came here in 1918 as office manager. When Victoria was added to the company's incorporated name, he began his career as plant manager.

There were two trucks and nine employees then and he worked in every department of the warehouse, formerly on Johnson Street. He retired to desk work as the company grew and the business became more specialized.

Today in the new Esquimalt Road warehouse, with the largest floor space of any warehouse in the city, there are 10 trucks and 52 employees.

SNAKES, SPIDERS

The early days of his work were probably the most colorful. Snakes and spiders [illegible] with nearly every shipment of bananas from the tropics. Today the fruit is unloaded at a Seattle warehouse for reshipment.

Oranges used to come from Palestine, lemons from Italy, and other produce from many far-flung points. Daily price lists and news of arrivals then, as still, flowed daily to his desk.

But science has made the world smaller. Refrigeration is the biggest step forward and brings Victoria's supplies closer in time.

ALWAYS AVAILABLE

The cooling process has made virtually all commodities available the year round, most of them from the United States.

Speed was illustrated this week, he said, when a carload of potatoes from south of Seattle was delivered here, washed, graded and sacked, 24 hours after being dug from fields.

Retirement for Mr. Lipsey means a waterfront home near Brentwood and a rest.

"There will be no sideline of farming," he said. "After a rest I'll look after my personal interests."

Alexander Says H-Bomb Threat Reason Britain Giving Up Suez

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The hydrogen bomb has made the concentrated military base obsolete, Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis said yesterday in explanation of the evacuation of British troops from the Suez.

Speaking at noon press conference, Britain's defense minister said he had been pressing for evacuation of the Suez Zone for some time. As a military man he saw the need for redeployment of forces to "get more flexibility of movement."

He denied a Vancouver report that he had said "hatred" as much as the threat of atomic weapons forced Britain out of the Suez Zone.

He indicated that it was useless, however, to tie up 80,000 troops supposedly guarding the canal when what they were actually doing was guarding one another against a hostile Egypt.

Commenting on the shooting down by Chinese Red fighters of a British airliner near Hainan, Lord Alexander cautiously understated that it was a "very serious thing."

"It increases international tension, the one thing we want to try and get easement on," he said. "Our aim and purpose should be to ease this tension by better understanding between nations and the avoidance of incidents like this."

Earlier he was quoted as saying an isolated incident like the Hainan shooting "could mushroom into an all-out war" and that any further incidents "might bring a different and stronger protest than the diplomatic notes we had to send."

He said that even with the end of the Indo-China shooting, as long as this international tension existed "we can't really say we are at peace."

Defense Chief Quits Soon

VANCOUVER (CP) — Field Marshal Earl Alexander says he will retire from his post as Britain's minister of defense when Sir Winston Churchill steps down as prime minister.

But just when that will be is still anyone's guess.

"I would like to know when he's retiring, too," said Lord Alexander Thursday.

"But when he goes, I go too."

He was commenting on the recent shake-up in the British cabinet.

Union Rallies To Gasworkers

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks has been asked to "demand" that the B.C. Electric Co. sign a contract with its gasworkers or face an immediate strike vote.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-TLC), in a province-wide show of strength, made its request known yesterday. It came as a unanimous resolution from a special conference at Vancouver of the provincial association of the IBEW.

The company has refused to sign a new two-year contract with 240 gasworkers in Victoria and Vancouver because of their certification with IBEW Local 213.

The company said yesterday the Labor Relations Board went beyond its jurisdiction in certifying the union for the employees, and added plans an attempt to quash the board's ruling in court.

The company has agreed to implement the proposed contract if gasworkers sign as a committee rather than as a union, an IBEW sokesman said.

The IBEW provincial association has pledged "full support" to the gasworkers in their demands.

The employees applied for a government strike vote Thursday after notification the company would not sign the contract with the union.

Delinquents' Parents Assailed

Magistrate A. I. Thomas hit out at the parents of teen-aged delinquents yesterday in Colwood provincial court when he sent an 18-year-old youth to jail for three months.

He was Jack Howe of 116 Joseph, who earlier pleaded guilty to five charges including theft of a bracelet, driving while impaired by alcohol, wilful damage, consuming liquor in a public place, and breaking glass on a highway.

The offenses were committed Tuesday at Thetis Lake. The bracelet was stolen from a car. Two vehicles were damaged by being struck by beer bottles, court was told.

Howe had nothing to say in court. Before sentence was passed his mother told Magistrate Thomas: "Jack was under the influence of liquor and didn't know what he was doing."

She was quickly cut off by the magistrate who said: "He should not have been drinking at his age. Drink is no excuse and you might as well forget it. He is responsible for his actions."

He told Howe that he had been given numerous opportunities in other courts.

Magistrate Thomas told the mother: "I am surprised you let your boy go out dressed in this manner. In many instances parents are to blame for the conduct of their children." The youth was wearing trousers that fitted tight at the ankles.

Sentencing the accused to three months with hard labor on the theft charge, the magistrate told Howe he hoped the punishment would improve his conduct.

He warned the youth he was facing more trouble if he did not change his ways. Howe was given concurrences an sentences on the other charges.

Sarwan Singh was sent to jail for 30 days for wife-beating by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city court.

At the time of the offense, July 25, the accused was on probation as a result of a previous assault last February.

His wife told the court, through an interpreter, that Sarwan attacked her after he had been drinking. He slapped her several times and tried to beat her with a stick. She stated he threw the stick at her as she fled from their home.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices showed a firm tone in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

A fair export business came into barley, but no indications on amount were available. American interest and domestic shipping orders made up the oats trade. Flax and rye both had American buying.

No information was available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Lakehead prices for the top grades of class two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Thursday.

Wall Street Ends Week On Top Note

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed the week with a lively advance that sent it up to [illegible]

Steels and aircrafts were leaders in the rise and were helped along by many individual issues plus utilities, railroads, oils, coppers, rubbers, radio-televisions, atomic issues, shipbuilding shares and some sugars.

There were three outstanding issues—Youngstown Steel and Tube up 5⅛ at 58, Bethlehem Steel up 2⅞ at 80¼, and Goodall-Sanford up 3¾ at 23⅞.

New Highs for 1954

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials and golds ended with 1954 highs on the stock market Friday. Base metals advanced to hover near a 1954 high and western oils nosed up.

Papers and steels were leaders on the industrial board. Utilities, foods and manufacturing also scored good advances.

Thirty-three stocks in all climbed to 1954 highs during the day while five slipped to new lows. The losers were almost all concentrated in western oils.

Golds advanced over a wide area of small gains while seniors made strong advances in a few selected stocks.

Uraniums were down slightly.

Gold Shares Bought

VANCOUVER — Golds provided buying interest with prices of leading producers making advances. Barlorne was up 15 cents at 3.90. Pioneer up 14 cents at 2.19, and Cariboo Gold up 4 cents at 74 cents. Taylor Bridge also made a small gain at 38 cents and Highland Belle was firm at 40 cents. Other mines attracted little or no attention.

Few issues traded in oils and prices were mixed, although in a number of cases the bids were raised.

Powell River retained its new high of $37, and Westminster "B" traded at $17.50. Strong spot in industrials was Capital Estates with a 10 cents advance to $5.20.

Prices Move Ahead

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices moved ahead in moderately active stock market trading.

Carriers, banks and senior oils showed little change. The remainder of the industrial market leaned forward.

Secrecy Guards Uranium Deals

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

For security reasons, holders of uranium shares are not given details of contracts entered into by their companies with the refining companies.

In the case of Canada, the sole purchaser of uranium ores is the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Company, which has undertaken to make minimum payments over a ten-year period.

While lack of detail may be a deterrent to the more cautious speculator, the mining companies in Canada seem generally satisfied with the marketing conditions offered by the Crown Corporation.

This is in sharp contrast to the situation in Belgium, which is the world's largest uranium producer, through its Congo dependency.

The Belgian government, which controls the sales of uranium from the Congo, is being accused of selling the valuable atomic ore to Britain and the United States at "give-away" prices.

The Belgian government has been under severe pressure by both left and right wing deputies to disclose outlines of its agreements with the western powers, but so far it has refused to divulge the secret international agreements.

Despite this, however, the big uranium producers of the Belgian Congo are finding the business profitable. One company—Union Miniere de Haut Katanga—has raised its dividends from $4 a share in 1945 to $29 a share in 1953. In the same period the market value of its shares have increased from $370 to $722.

PARIS BUYS GOLD

Strength of gold shares of New York, Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges in the past few days is traced back to demand for gold earlier in the week on the Paris gold market.

Last Tuesday the kilo gold ingot climbed over $30 to 429,000 francs ($1,225).

The explanation is that gold hoarders are again at work believing that U.S. dollar aid to France following the Indo-China cease-fire may be considerably reduced.

Some interesting movement in the stock of oil companies with natural gas holdings along the route of the new Trans-Canada Pipeline to eastern Canada may be expected within the next few weeks.

Negotiations for the purchase of natural gas are now being negotiated, according to [illegible] pipeline. Mr. Tanner points out that with the permit for the line now given by the Transport Commission, it is now possible to enter into purchasing and distributing contracts.

A great number of oil companies are sitting with capped gas wells awaiting a market, and once they are able to complete selling agreements with the pipeline, they will be in a position to enter into fresh development work.

The pipeline will not be completed until the fall of 1956 but by next fall natural gas will be available as far east as Winnipeg and Minnesota. After that the market for gas will expend rapidly as the line moves eastward.

Pipe laying starts next spring.

FRUIT EXPERT RETIRES

Retiring today after 38 years service with the company, is R. A. (Dick) Lipsey, manager of A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd.

One of the best known men in the fruit business on the coast, Mr. Lipsey has been manager here for 28 of the 36 years he has been in Victoria. Prior to coming to Victoria, he was two years with A. P. Slade in Vancouver. He is a native of Ottawa.

His successor is George Pears who has been with the company in Victoria for 17 years.

Nation's Expenses Exceed Revenue---Deficit Feared

OTTAWA (CP)—The government went into the red by $65,157,000 in June, cutting the budgetary surplus for the first three months of the 1954-55 fiscal year to $109,044,000, the lowest in the postwar era.

Revenues declined, particularly in the field of corporation and personal income taxes. There was some reduction in defense expenditures, but public debt charges, payments to provinces and family allowances were heavier.

The June treasury statement, issued Friday by Finance Minister Harris, showed that revenues for the month dropped to $319,585,000 from $371,932,000 in June last year.

With expenditures for June well ahead of receipts, the government's accounts were in the red by $65,157,000, some four times greater than the $15,209,000 deficit in June last year.

This year the government aims for a surplus of $4,000,000, but there is some possibility, based on the current trend, that a small annual deficit, the first in postwar years, may develop.

Bristol Buys Canadian Plane Firm

WINNIPEG (CP)—A $3,000,000 deal whereby the British Bristol Aeroplane Co., Ltd., of Bristol, England, acquired MacDonald Brothers Aircraft Ltd., in Winnipeg was signed here Friday.

Officials of the two companies announced that negotiations for the sale had been completed, with Bristol acquiring all MacDonald shares effective July 31, 1954.

The plant will continue to operate under the old name as a subsidiary of the British company.

Walter Ward, 728 Hillside, was remanded until August 4 when he appeared before Magistrate Thomas in the city provincial court on a charge of possession of drugs.

He was arrested July 26 in Langford, and it is alleged he had 100 capsules of a drug, believed to be heroin, in his car.

The remand was granted on request of J. G. Ruttan, who has been appointed to prosecute the case for the Crown.

Ward has failed to raise $7,000 bail and is in custody.

First patent for a vacuum cleaner was issued Nov. 2, 1909, to I. Weidemann and J. H. Templin of Philadelphia.

A ROARING START

But It's Only The Beginning!

Every track star knows the importance of "getting off to a good start." Yet . . . he knows that the greater part of the struggle lies in that long stretch ahead. It takes continuous effort in the hard, wearisome struggle.

LIKEWISE . . .

The progressive business man knows that ONE ad is only the beginning . . . that it often requires several ads to produce the final result — a successful sale.

HE KNOWS

—only too well, that people forget . . . postpone . . . delay . . . waver. He knows that over a period of time only CONSISTENT advertising pays the required dividends.

Soft Drinks Too Much For Young Ball Fans

DETROIT (AP)—Thirty children watching the Philadelphia-Detroit baseball game at Briggs Stadium Thursday were made ill by soft drinks purchased in the left-field pavilion, police reported. Police seized four portable cold-drink tanks. The contents will be analyzed.

Heir's Death Ruled Natural

CHICAGO (AP)—A coroner's jury Thursday decided that wealthy young Montgomery Ward Thorne died of natural causes, but recommended further investigation.

The jurors, several hours earlier, had received a report from four pathologists who found that the 20-year-old heir's death was caused by bronchial penumonia.

The report was designed to end conjecture about the death of the heir to a mail-order fortune whose body was found in bed in his $75-a-month apartment on the near north side June 19.

Head of Anglican Hierarchy Begins North American Tour

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, arrives in Quebec City today to begin a tour of North America, ending in Victoria in September.

The archbishop arrives with Mrs. Fisher and a large group of Anglican Church officials aboard the Cunard liner Scythia.

The church group will attend the Anglican Church Congress to be held in Minneapolis August 4-13.

Other members are Rev. Canon McLeod Campbell, secretary to the Church of England advisory committee on missionary strategy; Rt. Rev. D. C. Dunlop, MA, dean of Lincoln; Rev. Canon I. H. White-Thomson, vicar of Folkstone and chaplain to the Queen; Mrs. White-Thomson; Rev. H. G. Tindall and Mrs. Tindall; Rev. Maurice Ridgway and B. A. Cutter, lay delegate.

Another passenger aboard the Scythia is Rev. Father Dunstan, OFM, conductor of the Franciscan Marian Year pilgrimage party.

Archbishop H. E. Sexton of Victoria, who has been holidaying in Great Britain, will also attend the Minneapolis conference, and another Victoria delegate will be Dean P. R. Beattie of Christ Church Cathedral.

After his arrival here, the archbishop of Canterbury will dedicate the new northwest tower of Christ Church Cathedral.

The tower is a memorial to the former bishop of London, the late Rt. Rev. Arthur Winnington Ingram, who was president of the British Columbia and Yukon Church Aid Society for 29 years.

A stained glass window which left Liverpool by steamer early this month is expected in Victoria next week after a 5,600-mile journey.

The window bears a portrait of Bishop Ingram against a background of the skyline of London, and is a gift from his friends.

It measures two feet by eight feet and is valued at $1,000.

General Theme Set for Meeting

Nearly 100 delegates are expected to attend a United Church of Canada conference in Halifax September 12 to 14, just before the church's general council meets at Sackville, N.B.

General theme of the conference will be "Responsible Church Membership," and commissions will consider the theme in relation to evangelism, visitation, personal witness, education, world missions, community responsibility, group fellowship and witness, the use of money and recruiting for full-time ministries.

New developments will be presented in six spheres of the church's program, especially as it reaches adults in the congregation and the community.

These will include plans and projects relating to Christian family life, Christian citizenship, older people in the church, rural evangelism, mission study and activity, and Christian vocational witness.

Bible study will occupy an important place. First Corinthians will be considered for its particular message to those concerned about responsible church membership.

Methods of study will be planned to illustrate ways of helping other groups to engage in the most effective group Bible study.

British Schoolboy Explorers Eager To Try Wilderness Life

MONTREAL (BUP) — Fifty-three beardless British explorers headed into the lake-dotted wilds of northern Quebec Friday convinced they would "go in boys and come out men."

The teen-agers who arrived by plane from London Thursday went north by train, bus and bush plane for a seven-week trip on which their diet will consist of hard tack and pemmican, supplemented by fish, game, roots and berries.

"Y'know, the stuff the Indians lived on," George Randall, a teacher accompanying the youngsters, explained. "Seven weeks living in the open will see them go in boys and come out men."

The boys, who wore heavy boots, breeches and jackets and carried packsacks and sleeping bags, were picked for the trip by the British Schools Exploration Society. It has staged similar summer expeditions around the world since 1932.

They and their 10 leaders will join an advance party at a base camp at Lake Wakonichi in Quebec's remote Lake St. John district. As soon as they get settled there they will break up into small parties, hump 80 to 90-pound packsacks on their backs and start four-day "toughening-up" marches. They later will march seven days and wind up with a 14-day hike.

UNMAPPED LAND

Dr. J. C. Hawksley, another group leader, said some of the boys would map unexplored territory on their trips during which they will keep in touch with the base camp by radio. Others will work at geology, ornithology, zoology, meteorology, photography and telegraphy.

Hawksley estimated the trip would cost about $600 a head. He said the exhibitions were financed partly by contributions and partly by the young explorers who attend grammar and private schools in Britain.

Vancouver Workers May Strike

Strike action by glassworkers may spread from Victoria to Vancouver, where a majority of glass workers have endorsed a strike.

Jack Eaves, representing the Glassworkers' Union (AFL-TLC), said yesterday there has not been a date set for strike action to back demands for a 20-cent-an-hour wage boost and other conditions for about 160 workers.

Some 20 Victoria glassworkers in two plants struck last Monday noon.

FIVE FOR STRIKE

Five Vancouver plants voted for a strike. Workers at Hobbs Glass division of Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd. rejected strike action in the government-supervised vote.

Pacific Glass Ltd. employees here also rejected strike action.

Strike action here at Hobbs Glass division and O'Neil Paint and Glass Ltd. is in support of demands identical with Vancouver.

Sandbox Derby

'Bowl,' Circus To Be Shown

The British Empire Games stadium and Clyde Beatty circus will be seen in Victoria for three days next week.

They are the prize-winning subjects reproduced in Victoria's supervised playgrounds sandbox derby. Redfern Street Park, last year's final winner, created the circus and tied for first prize with the miniature reproduction of the stadium by Beacon Hill Park children.

AT EATON'S

Judges yesterday selected the work of the two groups for display Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Eaton's. Public voting there will decide the winner.

The judges were Dr. H. R. Anderson, former director of Greater Victoria Recreational Council; W. H. Warren, city parks administrator; S. W. Muirhead, of the T. Eaton Co., and Gordon Hartley, director of the playgrounds program.

They declared the work much better than last year's, with originality outstanding. Four other parks which entered the contest scored from 87 to 81 points of a possible 100.

MUSIC FILLS AIR

Circus music filled the area of Redfern Street Park, emanating from a miniature calliope. Enterprising children had recorded music wired from a nearby home to their sandbox.

The final winner in the Tom Thumb work will be announced at 4 p.m. Saturday in the department store and at parks.

George Brice, of Beacon Hill, and Bill Shirley, Redfern, headed the group work in their respective parks.

Coffee Price Dips in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale prices of several leading brands of coffee dropped a nickel a pound in this area Wednesday, but the industry said it was both temporary and sectional.

B.C. Fishing Industry Threatened by Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's fishing industry, source of livelihood for an estimated 50,000 persons, appears headed for strike trouble.

Shoreworkers in the fishing canneries and camps have voted 90 per cent to reject a conciliation board award and ask for a government supervised strike vote.

United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) officials said Thursday the 3,200 cannery workers were asking a 20-cent general wage increase, 40-hour week, improved overtime, guaranteed piece work rates, statutory holidays, compulsory check-off and other concessions. Tendermen seek a $30 monthly increase.

Last wage boost in the industry, union officials said, was in 1951 and present pay is "deplorably below the level of other basic industries in B.C."

Parentcraft Classes Set

A new series of parentcraft classes for expectant mothers begins on Monday at 2 p.m. at the YWCA.

A total of nine weekly classes will be held starting with a demonstration of the baby bath and equipment. Other topics to be discussed include general health care, baby's growth and development, food planning and baby feeding.

The series also includes visits to the maternity wards of the hospitals.

Classes are given through the co-operative efforts of the Victorian Order of Nurses, city health and welfare department and Saanich health department.

Miss Elizabeth Riddell of the VON will co-ordinate the current series.

Rev. Murdo Nicholson of Fairview Presbyterian Church in Vancouver will be guest speaker at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Mary and Henry Streets, during the month of August.

Bears Get Share Of League Lead By Beating Tyees

Vancouver	9	13	.409	6½
Wenatchee	6	18	.308	10

Last night's score: Victoria 1 at Yakima 8.

Lack of consistent pitching has generally been advanced as the big reason why Victoria Tyees haven't been doing too well in the WIL this season; but the club's record on the road hasn't helped.

Last night, the Tyees were at Yakima for the first game of a four-game series and their win streak was abruptly ended at three games as they took an 8-1 trouncing from the ambitious Bears.

It was the fourth straight loss to Yakima, which swept a three-game series here earlier in second-half play, and the fourth straight loss away from home in the second-half.

RIOS TOO GOOD

After pounding Edmonton Eskimos 18-4, Thursday night, the Tyees could do nothing with Danny 'The Lion' Rios, large-sized Mexican righthander, who held them to five hits. Three of them, successive singles by Eddie Lake, Mel Stein and Bill Prior in the seventh inning, deprived Rios of a shutout.

Meanwhile, Berlyn Hodges wasn't having too much luck with the Yakima batting order. He got by well enough until the fifth, when two singles, two bases on balls, a double and an error produced five runs. Rios counted the last Yakima runs in the sixth with a two-run homer.

Prior pitched the last two innings for the Tyees and held the Bears scoreless.

Victory boosted the Bears into a first-place tie with Lewiston Broncs. The Broncs, who edged Tri-City Braves, 7-6, are actually a half-game ahead but the clubs are tied in percentage. Lewiston scored three runs in the ninth inning to edge past the Braves.

CAPS STILL SLIPPING

Other games saw the Vancouver Capilanos, first-half champions, continue to slip. They lost to the last-place Wenatchee Chiefs, 6-3, with manager Bill Brenner the pitching victim.

In the other game, the Eskimos came back after three straight defeats at Victoria to blank the third-place Salem Senators, 5-0, behind the steady pitching of Jack Widner.

U.S. Net Team Has 2-0 Lead In Zone Semi

ST. PETERSBURG (UP) — Straight Clark and Hamilton Richardson, the nation's fifth and sixth ranked tennis players, swept Cuba's Garrido brothers aside in two singles matches Friday to put the United States Davis Cup team within one match of victory in the American zone semi-finals.

Clark, of Pasadena, Calif., defeated Rinaldo Garrido, 6-0, 9-7, 7-5, in the first match. Then Richardson, 20-year-old Baton Rouge, La., court stylist, flattened Orlando Garrido 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, as the U.S. squad's gamble with its second-stringers paid off handsomely.

Last night's score: Copley Bros. 2, Individuals 1.

Marie Cooper pitched a sparkling two-hitter at Central Park Thursday night as Copley Bros. edged the league-winning Individuals, 2-1, in eight innings in the final scheduled game of the senior women's softball season.

Ruth Oster turned in a three-hit performance on the mound for Individuals but lost the decision in the first extra inning when two errors helped Copleys collect the winning run without benefit of a hit.

Stockers Race At Shearings

Tinling Rink Wins at B.E.G.

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The Fred Tinling rink of Vancouver won the British Empire Games bonspiel championship Friday.

Tinling swamped Rolly David, also of Vancouver, 11-4 in the final after each won play-off games in his own section.

Dominion Brier champion Matt Baldwin of Edmonton fell by the wayside when he lost both matches in the last day of round-robin play.

Thirteen Rungs Open For Week End Fishing

Thirteen rungs were still unclaimed after five days of fishing in the ninth of the 10 qualifying weeks of the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby.

Eight salmon, the largest a 19-pound, three-ounce spring taken by J. G. Hampton, were weighed in yesterday. That brought to 37 the number of rungs claimed of the 50 available this week.

Ninth-week fishing ends Sunday night and the qualifying period ends the following Sunday. There will be a two-week lull before the fish-off on August 22 for the $3,500 prize list, which is topped by a small cruiser outfitted with an outboard motor.

Three Teams Tie In Lawn Bowling

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three teams were tied for first place in both singles and doubles at the end of the first two rounds in British Empire Games lawn bowling.

New Zealand, Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia Friday took both their singles matches on the New Westminster greens to win four points, two better than their closest competitors.

Canada, Northern Ireland and Australia each won both their doubles rounds on the West Point Grey greens.

James Pirett of New Zealand, winner of the singles in the Empire Games at Auckland in 1950, was victorious in both his singles rounds. James Fairbairn of Northern Rhodesia and Ralph Hodges of Southern Rhodesia also won their singles matches.

CHAMPION UPSET

Arthur Saunders of South Africa upset Glyn Bosito, Australian singles champ for the last four years, by a one-sided 21-11 score. Saunders, however, lost his second round match to Fairbairn, 21-12.

John Linford, Lachine, Que., lost both his singles rounds.

Canada, however, picked up four points on the doubles play of Sam Gardiner and Dicky Williams, both of North Vancouver. One of the highlights of the first day's play was Williams' feat in the final end of Canada's second round match.

The Southern Rhodesian team of Alan Bradley and Ronnie Turner had a one-shot edge in the final end. Williams ran his jack through with his last wood to garner three points for a 17-15 win. In the morning round, Williams and Gardiner defeated the Northern Rhodesia team of John Millegan and Alex Rae, 23-14.

AUSSIES WIN TWO

Dave Long and Jack Bird of Australia won both their doubles rounds but had trouble against England's Edwin Bateman and Tom Stewart in afternoon play. Long and Bird scored four shots in the final end to edge England's double team, 21-20. In morning play, the Australian team defeated South Africa's William Stead and Harry Barker, 27-14.

William Rosbotham and Percy Watson of Northern Ireland came through with a twin-killing in the doubles, defeating New Zealand 29-12 and Scotland 20-12.

Duncan Fans See Action In Tag Match

DUNCAN—Duncan wrestling fans were treated to considerable extra entertainment here Friday night as Ben Loughren, 260-pound matman from Montreal, went berserk during the feature tag-team match.

Partnered with Victoria policeman Keith Hollett against Chief Thunderbird and Baby Face Wilson of North Bay, Ontario, in an all-Canadian match, Loughren used a rope he claimed held up his blue jeans to choke his opponents.

Thunderbird and Wilson entered the ring together to strip the jeans off Loughren and the Montrealer took it out on everyone within reach, including his partner and referee Dave Pye. Hollett finally ended it when he kayoed his partner with a metal chair handed him by a spectator but trouble broke out again when Loughren recovered in the dressing room and he had to be subdued all over again.

Rocks Beaten By Big Horns

Holland Co. Big Horns scored an 8-6 triumph over a short-handed Oak Bay Shamrocks club in Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association juvenile league action at Stevenson Park Thursday night.

Goalie Fred Wooster turned in an outstanding effort in the losing cause while Jackie Wilson and Don McIntosh contributed fine two-way performances for the losers: Wilson hanged in four goals and McIntosh added the other two.

Stu Smith and Bob McKee each scored twice for Big Horns.

Next league game is scheduled for Stevenson Park Monday evening with Oak Bay meeting Strathcona Cafe.

Fan Club Dance

The Shamrock Sideliners Club will sponsor a dance at the Brentwood Community Hall August 13.

Victory moved Rotary into a virtual three-way tie for first place. Gyros and Rotary are tied for the top spot with Odd Fellows only 12 percentage points behind. For the defending champions, it was their fifth straight defeat.

Harrison gave up only three walks and hit one batter as his mates backed him up with errorless support.

Dunn Munn sparked the winners' eight-hit attack on two pitchers with three hits including a double.

Cockell Whips The Kid

SEATTLE—Don Cockell, British Empire champion and third ranked heavyweight of the world, whipped Harry "Kid" Matthews Friday night for the third time in a row when the Seattle kid could not show for the eighth round due to a back injury. Cockell weighed 210½, Matthews 180.

The victory boosted the bid of the beefy battler from Battersea for a crack at the heavyweight crown worn by Rocky Marciano. Cockell is ranked third among heavyweight contenders. Matthews recently was boosted from ninth to seventh spot.

ONE-SIDED

Braddock, former world heavyweight champion, who was sole judge of tonight's open-air battle, said the first round was even and Cockell was the winner of the other six rounds. Cockell scaled 210½ pounds, Matthews 180, going into the fight.

A crowd of 16,000, including many who came down from the British Empire Games to root for the Britisher, paid close to $100,000 to watch this third meeting between the two. It was the largest gate in Pacific Northwest fight history.

Action started fast with Matthews jabbing and dancing away while Cockell slowly stalked his opponent. Cockell landed left hooks and good rights that hurt Matthews, but Matthews' solid rights didn't seem to faze the former blacksmith.

In the sixth round Matthews was bleeding profusely at the nose. The Londoner moved in and scored with left jabs and crunching, straight rights to lay the ground for the clinching seventh round.

A hard right staggered Mathews in the seventh and Cockell bore in for the kill. Mathews managed to stay on his feet, but was glassy-eyed. Braddock wouldn't let him come out for the eighth round bell.

Lions Pick Backfield For Debut

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions will probably use a starting backfield lineup made up of three Canadians and two American imports when they make their gridiron debut here August 11 in an exhibition game against Montreal Alouettes.

Coach Annis Stukus said Friday he expects his first string backfield to be made up of quarterback Johnny Mazur, fullback by Bailey and halves Doug Reid, Pete Thodos and Bob Holburn.

Mazur, recently released from the United States Army, was first string quarterback for Notre Dame University in 1951. Bailey, a former halfback with Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions, has been one of the standouts in Lions' training camp to date. Bailey, a 198-pound, 5 foot 10 speedster, turned out with Lions unexpectedly this season after coming here as a salesman for a machinery company.

Of the three Canadians, Vancouver-born Pete Thodos has the most gridiron experience. He was obtained this spring from Calgary Stampeders and was one of the most consistent ground gainers and scorers in the Western Inter-provincial Football Union since joining Stamps in 1948.

Doug Reid also played with Stampeders for two years before joining the intermediate Vancouver Cubs last season. Holburn, a good pass receiver and hard tackler, jumped to professional company this season from the junior Vancouver Blue Bombers.

Petersen, Demas Meet in Finals

At the conclusion of Friday's play, which lasted into the deepening dusk of the evening, the stage was set for today's final rounds in all events of the B.C. Lawn Tennis Championships at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Top-seeded Seth Petersen of San Francisco, having been named to the final round on Thursday, was joined during yesterday's play by second-seeded Jim Demas of the same city.

Demas dug deeper into his bag of tricks to oust third-favored Emery Neale of Portland, generally regarded as the dark horse of the tourney. The 22-year-old Californian fashioned a neat four-set victory over his older opponent with scores of 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0. There was little to choose between the two for the first two and a half sets, after which Demas took advantage of a tiring opponent and rushed the net to salt away the victory with very severe volleying.

In the men's doubles, top-seeded Neale and Sam Lee scored a straight-set victory over Californians Ken Karns and Dr. J. A. Crane to advance to the final round. Scores were 6-2, 6-3, 7-5.

Meanwhile Demas and Petersen were having their troubles defeating Vancouver's Jim Skelton and Art Jeffrey in the best match of the day. After surviving a 22-game first set, Demas and Petersen went on to win 12-10, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3, in a match which featured some excellent net play and was a real thriller for the gallery.

Fans stayed late to watch Victoria's Margaret Lyons make a great stand against first-seeded Muriel Kifer of Menlo Park. Brushing of a rash of nerves which saw her drop the first set, 6-0, Margaret built up a good lead in the second, which she went on to win 7-5.

After a short intermission, Mrs. Kifer got off to a quick 3-0 lead in the third set and made it stand up for a 6-3 win although the issue was in doubt all the way.

Mrs. Kifer will oppose third-seeded Linda Vail in today's final, the latter having disposed of second-favored Barbara Lum in two close sets, 8-6, 9-7.

Peterson gained his third final when he teamed with Linda Vail in the mixed doubles semi-finals to best Sam and June Lee, 6-4, 6-3.

The winners will meet the winners of the other semi-final, between Mrs. Kifer and Demas and Miss Lum and Jeffrey. Darkness made it impossible to complete play last night and action was stopped with Mrs. Kifer and Demas holding a 4-2 lead in the second set after winning the first.

Brentwood Takes Title In Softball Playdowns

A Brentwood team won a B.C. championship and teams from Cordova Bay, Sooke and Brentwood moved ahead during the week in provincial minor softball playdowns.

The Island championship was won by the Brentwood bantam girls, who made it two in a row over Sooke on Wednesday night in the best-of-three series. With no Upper Island or Mainland entry in this division, the defeat of the Sooke team made Brentwood provincial champions.

Sooke, however, got one team into the B.C. championships, which will be staged in Vancouver this weekend. The Sooke midget boys eliminated Mill Bay Tri Coms on straight games to win the Lower Island and Island championships.

Also assured of a place in the provincial championships is the Brentwood juvenile girls' team. Brentwood won the Colwood and District Softball League championship in its division by defeating Elk Lake, 9-1, at Elk Lake to take the series in straight games. Score of the first game was 8-6. The Brentwood team also won the Vancouver Island title by eliminating Elk Lake and will play in the B.C. tournament in Vancouver on August 7 and 8.

Cordova Bay's bantam boys' team, however, has to win another series before it reaches the B.C. finals. Cordova Bay won the Lower Island title last night by trouncing Sooke, 18-3, in the deciding game of the best-of-three series.

Sooke won the first game, 15-14, and Cordova Bay ties up the series with a 17-8 decision.

Cordova Bay now meets Mill Bay in a best-of-three series for the Island championship. First game is at Mill Bay Saturday.

Nanaimo Native Sons, playing heads-up lacrosse all the way, kept alive their chances of a third-place finish in the Inter-City Lacrosse League by nipping the league-champion Victoria Shamrocks, 9-8, in a tense and rugged battle at Memorial Arena last night.

In gaining their first victory in seven tries against the Irish this season, the Native Sons moved to within four points of third-place Vancouver with two games in hand over the Pils.

However, the Sons indicated last night that if they meet Shamrocks in the semi-finals, Victoria will have no easy time of it in its bid to gain the Mann Cup final for the second successive year.

Led by defenseman and playing-coach Arnie Duggan, goalie Fred Fulla and John and Bob Lumley, the rejuvenated up-Island team raced to a 4-1 lead in the first quarter, trailed 6-5 at half-time, and drew even at 7-7 for the final quarter.

Playing brilliant possession lacrosse in the final 15 minutes, the winners gave Shamrocks few opportunities for direct shots at Fulla. The hefty netminder, who always appears to be at his best against the Irish, blocked 24 shots, 11 of them in a rough-and-ready third quarter that threatened to get out of hand and ended with four players in the penalty box.

John Lumley, who stayed out of trouble for most of the game, got what proved to be the winner when he raced in alone and beat Gordie Johnston cleanly seconds after Fulla had made a great save on a shot by Jack Sibbald.

The goal, his second of the night, came with Whitey Severson serving a two-minute penalty for checking in the crease. Spud Morelli added Sons' final goal at 10.13 and Jack Bionda got one back for Victoria with 25 seconds remaining.

There was much unnecessary high-sticking and slashing that wasn't called by referees Ernie Dickinson and Bill Wilkes, who had to clamp down in the last minute of the third quarter to avert what might have been serious trouble between the ever-feuding teams in the final frame.

Duggan turned in a brilliant two-way effort, scoring twice in the third quarter to draw the Sons even at 7-7. Bob Lumley was a source of annoyance to the Shamrocks with his bustling play.

Archie Browning and Jack Northup each fired two goals for the losers and ageless Arnie Ferguson turned in a workmanlike chore on defense.

"This victory will do the boys a lot of good," one Nanaimo official commented after the game. The Sons, at a special meeting at Nanaimo Monday night, accepted the resignation of manager Dr. Ross Brabber and reportedly smoothed out a few kinks in the organization.

Aussie Girl Star Ready To Retire

EMPIRE VILLAGE, Vancouver—Marjorie Jackson Nelson who holds all world records for women's sprints yesterday confirmed the announcement by her husband in Australia that she will retire from [illegible] after the British Empire Games.

"We talked it over when we were married last November," she said. "We are going into business, a sports radio electrical shop in a suburb of Adelaide. A week before I left with the Australian team for Vancouver we agreed definitely that this would be my last competition.

"It was not a hard decision to make. We want to make a success of our shop. You can't look after a home, train, travel and run and still manage a business."

* * *

John Landy showed no signs of easing up yesterday. He breezed through a brisk 1¼ mile, jogged a mile and then finished through a startling [illegible] three-quarters. He wound up his workout with a half [illegible] of alternate slow and fast running to "cool off."

England's Roger Bannister, who was also out for a hard run, accompanied three-miler Chris Chataway on a session of "Fartlek" over the golf course. "Fartlek" is a Swedish word which can be roughly translated into "speed play" and involves alternate fast and slow running, often for two or three hours at a stretch.

Piet Van Vuuren, 23-year-old member of the South African boxing team, never travelled in a plane until he came to the British Empire Games. This first flip carried him 13,000 miles. Back home he's a railway signal fitter.

* * *

British Empire Games ticket sales drew another $10,000 closer to their objective in the last 24 hours and the rush still is on.

Ticket sales chairman Sam Busen said prior to the opening that ticket sales stood at $280,000. The objective of $380,000 was based on 70 per cent capacity.

* * *

George Hillier, marathon runner from St. John's, Nfld., went for "just a short run" of eight miles. George has been taking things easy for a couple of days because of a blister he picked up. He said his foot is much better.

Canada - Trinidad relations got a little boost from muscle pains.

Mike Agostini, 100 - yard star from Trinidad, was looking for a masseur to rub out a few last-minute aches — nothing serious he assured. As Keevil Daley, a Canadian light - heavyweight weight-lifter, passed by, he stopped to chat for a minute with Agostini and upon request offered the services of his team's masseur.

* * *

Agostini rubbed his sweat covered hands on his woolen track suit, smiled confidently and reiterated his boast to do what everybody believes is almost impossible.

"Sure I'll beat him and good," Agostini said in reference to his clash with Hector Hogan of Australia Saturday in the 100 yard dash.

Hogan, who has a 9.3 clocking for the century, assured [illegible] large following that "Agostini is to be beaten along with the rest of them."

Les Laing of Jamaica, who was part of the 1,500 metre Jamaican relay team which set a world record at the last Olympics in Helsinki, was given a fair chance to upset both the swarthy Agostini and Hogan.

Eight youthful Canadian oarsmen with a flair for doing the impossible are counting on doing just that Wednesday when they meet the Thames Rowing Club of England in the feature eights race in the rowing events of the British Empire Games.

With only the two teams in the event their pre-race rivalry has been the high spot of twice daily workouts on the canal.

Spectators ask these questions: How good is the virtually unaltered University of British Columbia crew? Does it stand a chance against the precision [illegible] of the [illegible] crew?"

Cleveland Indians and New York Giants, American and National League leaders, respectively, both gained a game yesterday.

Indians received unexpected help from the Baltimore Orioles, particularly pitcher Don Larsen, the hard throwing righthander, who started the game with a 2-13 record, held the New York Yankees scoreless as he doled out seven hits while his usually punchless teammates came up with a solid attack to rout the [illegible] champions [illegible] grand slam home run by Bob Kennedy who drove in six runs was the crusher.

Meanwhile, the Indians had little trouble as they cooled off the warmish Washington Senators 8-3, with catcher Jim Hegan batting in four runs with a home run and a double. Larry Doby also helped out hitting his 21st home run and [illegible] an outstanding catch in the third inning.

GIANTS SLAP REDS

Losers of seven of their last eight games, the Giants beat an old nemesis as they [illegible] southpaw Fred Baczewski to down Cincinnati Reds 6-1. Ruben Gomez held the Reds to five hits and connected for one of the four Giant home runs.

Milwaukee Braves, still sporting pennant hopes, made it three in a row as they [illegible] Brooklyn Dodgers three games behind the Giants with a 9-3 victory. Dodgers routed Bob [illegible] in the first inning but couldn't score off Ernie Johnson, who went more than six innings for the first time this season.

Harvey Haddix scored his 15th win for St. Louis Cardinals, who crushed Philadelphia Phils 12-3 and Hank Sauer hit his 31st and 32nd home runs for Chicago Cubs who split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh in other National League action.

Arrow Furniture bounced back into first place in the [illegible] senior "A" men's softball league race last night as they edged fourth-place [illegible] Students 5-2, at Central Park.

Victory for Arrows gives them a slim one-point edge over second-place Fletchers, who have a game in hand. Fletchers will be looking for a chance to regain their lost [illegible] afternoon when they meet the ever dangerous United Services club at Central Park.

Big Bud Ross picked up his third victory in a row last night to run his season's record to 10-3. The righthander gave up eight scattered hits, walked two and struck out six.

Arrows had to come from behind to gain the victory after the Students had opened scoring in the second with a single run on a hit and a pair of errors.

Singles by Archie Sluggett and George Brown around a sacrifice bunt tied it in the fourth. Sluggett also started a two-run sixth inning when he drew a base on balls. A single by Bill Benn, an error, fielder's choice and another hit by Brown completed the damage.

Two more runs in the ninth made it certain for Arrows, who snuffed out an attempted rally in the bottom half of the inning with only one run scoring.

Rotarian Says Farewell To Club He Helped Form

PORT ALBERNI—A farewell address to the Rotary Club which he helped to organize 17 years ago was given by William A. Ackland who leaves with his wife this month for England where they will make their home after 42 years in Canada.

A charter member, first secretary and a past president of Rotary here, Mr. Ackland spoke of progress during the years he has spent in the Alberni Valley and of prospects for development.

Another Rotarian, Eric J. Dunn, also attended his final meeting. After a vacation he will go to Cranbrook as inspector of schools. Mr. Dunn has been principal of the high school here for 27 years. In the absence of President Tom Green, Andy Gislason conducted the meeting.

OFFICIAL ADMINISTRATOR

Mr. Ackland is one of Port Alberni's best-known citizens. He came to this city in 1921 when he was transferred to the Royal Bank branch here from Abbotsford. In the intervening years he has been a pillar of strength in many organizations and has been instrumental in the formation of several. He has been official administrator of the district for the past 20 years.

One of his most important public services was the organization and operation of Port Alberni's first public library in 1926. It was housed in the pioneer store of C. F. Bishop [illegible] sponsorship of the library that University of British Columbia extension department lectures were held here for two seasons.

MANY INTERESTS

Among offices he has held in Port Alberni was that of secretary of the original Board of Trade and of the Men's Canadian Club. He is a past president and treasurer of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross.

A past master of Barclay Lodge No. 90, AF & AM, he has been administrator of the Barclay Masonic Building since 1929.

After leaving the bank Mr. Ackland operated the Alberni District Credit Bureau from 1927 to 1945 and was manager of the Port Alberni Shipping Co. Ltd. from 1942 to 1948.

After these busy years in this district the Acklands will retire to Broadstairs, Kent.

Fire Danger Increases In Forests

A forest fire which started yesterday near Zeballos is a sure indication that the hazard is building up, a provincial forest protection official stated yesterday.

The fire near Kennedy Lake is now under control and company men are mopping it up.

The official said the danger is increasing every day and people going into the woods should use extreme care with cigarettes, pipes, cigars, matches and campfires.

NO CLOSURE YET

A forest closure is not foreseen for quite a few days yet. Starting Tuesday, the B.C. Forest Service will receive daily fire reports from all over the province.

Ten new fires were reported yesterday and four of these were in the Squamish area. The forest protection service has two patrolmen following the P.G.E. trains to combat fires set along the railway. They find from two to 10 fires a day, he said.

A forest fire near Sechelt is now partially controlled and is being fought by 30 company men and 10 forestry men. Another fire near the Canadian Collieries at Comox has spread over two acres but is under control.

Yesterday's fire near the Esquimalt Lagoon is on a patrol basis.

LOWEST IN YEARS

B.C. forest fire loss is the lowest in 21 years so far. Forestry officials report that not since 1933 has the fire incidence dropped to this year's total.

If the present situation continues, a new low record could be set this year.

Cost of fighting this year's fires is down to [illegible], about one-eighth of the amount spent in 1951 when the cost of fighting forest fires in B.C. soared to a record [illegible].

Protests Growing Over Post Office

Protests are growing among residents in the vicinity of the Prospect Lake post office over a departmental order which will close the post office August 16 and place residents on an extension of the Royal Oak rural mail delivery service.

W. J. Graham, 5197 Interurban Road, said yesterday nearly 100 residents affected have signed a petition protesting the change.

ASKED FOR IT

Mr. Graham admitted that residents around the lake asked some time ago for a rural delivery service but he said most of them had no idea the granting of such a service would result in closure of the Prospect Lake post office.

"If they take the name away we'll be just an appendage of Royal Oak," complained Mr. Graham. "We have nothing to do with Royal Oak. We live between two and three miles away."

Prospect Lake residents will have to buy rural mail boxes in order to qualify for the delivery service.

METHOD 'UNSAFE'

Mr. Graham said one man, who regularly receives cheques through the mail, objects to this method of receiving letters as unsafe.

Prospect Lake post office and store stands at the junction of Prospect Lake, Spartan, Interurban and West Saanich Roads.

Notice of the extension of the Royal Oak rural delivery and closure of the Prospect Lake post office is signed by W. H. Wilson of Vancouver, acting district director of postal service.

Magistrate Criticizes Light Terms

NANAIMO (CP)—Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts has criticized what he called the "entirely inadequate" sentences imposed in Victoria on a man charged with obtaining goods and money with worthless cheques.

Magistrate Beever-Potts sentenced Percy William Byatt to two years when he pleaded guilty to obtaining $10.50 from a service station operator in Nanaimo with a bogus cheque.

Byatt requested a penitentiary term and admitted being sentenced in Victoria Monday on similar charges.

On the four charges in Victoria he was sentenced to one year each on two counts and to six months each on the others, the sentences to run concurrently.

"I can't understand the Victoria sentences," the Nanaimo magistrate said. "They are entirely inadequate."

Local PCs Move Fast On Issue

Oak Bay Progressive Conservatives, united in their effort to heal the split in the party in B.C., are moving quickly to begin federal-provincial party negotiations.

William Mann, vice-president of the Oak Bay association, said yesterday that the resolution urging negotiations which was passed at a Thursday night meeting will be put in the mail today.

The resolution will be sent to George Hees, national party president and organizer, in Ottawa and the provincial headquarters in Vancouver.

THORNY ISSUE

It urges Mr. Hees to come to B.C. as soon as possible to meet provincial leader Deane Finlayson and begin negotiations over the thorny issue of organization, the nub of the problem.

The resolution was passed after the meeting rejected motions urging meetings between Mr. Finlayson and federal leader George Drew, but approved confidence votes in both leaders.

Mr. Hees is scheduled to visit B.C. in early fall. He was previously invited to speak before the provincial group but declined the invitation, stating his trip was to be arranged by the three federal MPs in B.C.

East Germans Low on Bread

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany has admitted that bread and cereal shortages are plaguing areas of the East zone. The trade and supply ministry linked the shortages with the disappearance of Dr. Otto John, West German security chief, behind the Iron Curtain. It charged the shortages were due to rumors which started panic buying.

Vancouver-Lake Cowichan Service

Airplane Station Given Green Light

DUNCAN — Permission was granted by North Cowichan council for the temporary use of land at the end of Indian Road on Quamichan Lake for an airplane station.

This will enable the speedy inauguration of two round-trip flights daily by Pacific Western Airlines between Vancouver and Lake Cowichan. Work is proceeding now on the construction of a landing float.

It is expected that the flights will be running on schedule next week as soon as arrangements have been worked out for landing facilities at Lake Cowichan and Camp 3 and Camp 6, Youbou. Permission was given by North Cowichan for the temporary installation to be in use for as long as a year.

It had been thought that residents along the lake would object to the disturbance of the water but Reeve C. A. P. Residents had been complaining about the discoloration of the water due to algae.

Cunningham Drugs had a supply of the drug rushed from a Vancouver warehouse to the Vancouver airport, where it was placed aboard a plane for Victoria.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Ash picked up the drug at the Patricia Bay Airport and raced to the hospital in 18 minutes, with the help of city, Saanich and RCM Police.

The phone company's interceptor service was slightly interrupted until repairs were made.

Skilled Workers Needed

There are plenty of jobs for specialists, according to the National Employment Service here, but unskilled men and women find the hunting poor.

Skilled construction workers, for instance, are in steady demand. Plasterers and cement finishers are wanted and some jobs in logging and sawmill operations have been difficult to fill.

Number of women applying for work is higher than usual with no signs of slackening. A number of job openings listed by the NES require higher qualifications than the average applicant possesses. The largest number of vacancies is in domestic employment, followed by those for stenographers. The demand for waitresses has dropped.

The need for professional and highly skilled workers in other parts of Canada continues, but the number of vacancies, except for graduate engineers, has dropped.

Shown left to right above with flowers sent to Royal Jubilee pavilion are Mrs. M. Whyte, supervisor, Miss R. Laidman and Mrs. A. Sunderland.

'Hot Potato' of Traffic Tossed in Wyatt's Lap

City council juggled the issue of traffic control yesterday like a hot potato, finally tossing it over to City Manager Cecil Wyatt.

A motion was eventually passed instructing Mr. Wyatt to report on the possibility of separating the vehicle control and mechanical aspects of traffic supervision.

Ald. Robert Macmillan, who suggested the motion, said there should be no doubt in Mr. Wyatt's mind that it is council's intent to place vehicle control problems under the police department and mechanical problems, such as maintenance of the existing traffic-light system, under the public works department.

WIPE OUT AUTHORITY

Alderman Macmillan said this would eliminate the traffic engineering department of the public works department and wipe out authority of Robert Doble, traffic engineer, over [illegible] police department.

The mayor objected that the city manager had already stated Mr. Doble was an invaluable employee.

Alderman Macmillan said his motion only asked the manager for advice which council was not bound to accept.

Before the issue of traffic supervision was introduced, council gave first three readings to a by-law which will again make traffic flow both ways on Fort, Broughton and View Streets.

Only Ald. Frank Mulliner and Ald. Brent Murdoch voted against the by-law. The mayor said he would call a special meeting to give the by-law final reading.

It may be September before the by-law is finally passed and mechanical changes are effected wiping out the one-way street system.

TOO PRECIPITATE

Alderman Mulliner said council [illegible] being "far too precipitate" and was going to plunge the three streets back to the "chaotic condition" that existed before the advent of the one way street plan.

"It seems a good thing to clear it all away and let a new man deal with it," observed the mayor.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, works committee chairman, said parking was the biggest problem on the three streets.

"Personally, I don't think our traffic problem is as bad as it is suggested," he [illegible]

PLAN CONFUSING

Ald. Mrs. Margaret Christie agreed that the traffic problem is not as bad as it is painted and branded the one-way street plan "confusing."

Alderman Murdoch agreed changes were necessary in the present system, but insisted that current conditions "are better than what we had."

"We don't tear down our house because there's a leak [illegible] the roof," he said.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow steered council to the wider issue of overall traffic supervision with a motion which would give the police department the upper hand over the public works department.

CONTINUAL FRICTION

Alderman Edgelow said there has been continual friction between the two departments and this interfered with efficiency.

He said he felt Mr. Doble's judgment had been wrong on the one-way street plan. He said if traffic supervision was turned over to the police department council would not lose any of its powers because any changes in traffic regulations would still have to receive approval of aldermen.

Alderman Edgelow said a traffic supervisor must be a man of great diplomacy and possess a proper degree of technical knowledge.

Alderman Murdoch said the man who heads the police traffic division should hold the rank of inspector and sit in on meetings of the public works committee to discuss traffic matters.

Alderman Edgelow's motion, he said, only means that council would be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Alderman Mulliner could get no one to second a suggestion that a special committee study the traffic supervision issue.

The mayor said council would be taking no chances by turning traffic supervision over to the police.

NOT YET READY

He advised [illegible] Police Chief John Blackstock believes that Victoria is not yet ready for far-reaching traffic control scheme like Sgt. Brooke Douglass (head of the police traffic division) "might have had perhaps at one time."

(Sgt. Douglass' plan, which would blanket the city with one-way streets between Belleville, Hillside, Wharf and Quadra, is at present being studied by a special committee of the town planning commission).

Alderman Edgelow's motion was finally rejected by council before Alderman Macmillan introduced his successful one.

Chest Silent until Council Knows

Decision Reached on Grant

Directors of the Community Chest met privately yesterday to set policy for dealing with the $8,000 charitable grant handed over by city council earlier in the month.

Ralph Mathews, Chest president, declined comment following the meeting.

"We reached a unanimous decision and are officially conveying it to council," he said.

NOT IN POSITION

Until the decision is in the hands of the council, he continued, Chest directors are not in a position to make any comment.

City Council asked the Chest to distribute money among eight agencies, five of which have no connection with the Chest.

Some aldermen objected that council, in turning over its charitable grant funds to the Chest to distribute, was shirking its responsibilities.

It is believed Chest directors will agree to accept at least part of the $8,000 for member organizations which had asked the city for charitable grants.

It is possible, however, that some of the money may [illegible] passed back for distribution to non-member organizations like the Canadian Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

Organizations referred to the Chest by council include the YMCA, YWCA, Boy Scouts' Association (all Chest members), the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Girl Guides, Sea Cadets and James Bay Community Association (which operate outside the Chest).

An invitation may be extended to non-member organizations to join the Chest.

Farmer Construction Ltd. of Victoria has been awarded the contract for the 278 by 135-foot, four-story building which will take 18 months to build.

Nephew in Shot-Down Airliner; Couple Anxiously Awaiting Word

Waiting anxiously for news of their nephew who was aboard the British airliner shot down by Chinese fighters in the Far East last week are Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Patrick of 593 Victoria Avenue.

"We don't know if he was rescued by the Americans or the Chinese, or if he drowned," Mrs. Patrick said last night.

Their concern is for 29-year-old George Cattanach, a son of Mrs. Patrick's late brother, who was born in Port Arthur, Ont., and taken to Australia by his parents when a small boy.

The missing man was due to be married shortly, and his mother and fiancée had traveled from their home in Brisbane to Hong Kong for the wedding.

AS PASSENGER

Mr. Cattanach was a ground engineer for Cathay Pacific Airlines stationed in Bangkok and was flying to Hong Kong as a passenger in one of the company's Skymaster airliners when it was shot down into the sea last Friday.

The incident occurred near Hainan Island Chinese military base.

Of the 18 passengers and crew members reported aboard the plane 10 were rescued; but no survivor lists have yet been released.

Chinese boats swarmed to the scene and authorities report they may have rescued other survivors. The plane is said to have gone under about one minute after it crash-landed.

Another of Mrs. Patrick's nephews, and a cousin of the missing man, was killed last October when a British Commonwealth Pacific Airline's plane crashed into a hillside near San Francisco after a flight from Australia.

He was Charles Niven Cattanach, flight-engineer aboard the aircraft. The flyer was a son of another of Mrs. Patrick's brothers. The brothers married two sisters and both families later moved to Australia.

Charles Cattanach used to spend his leaves in Victoria when he was on the trans-Pacific run to Vancouver.

It was his widow who informed Mrs. Patrick of the latest air misfortune to hit the family.

Proper Locks, Police Advice To Housewife

Two detectives gave a Victoria housewife some advice yesterday after she reported the theft of $20 from her home.

The woman said the money was taken from a wallet on a buffet. She said the doors of the home on Carrol Street were locked but a skeleton key could have opened at least one door.

The detectives, after obtaining information on the theft, told the woman to have proper locks put on all the doors.

Picnic Planned For Orphanage

Those Lonely, in Need, Have a Friend, Indeed

Theo Diminvatz, 617 St. Charles, enjoys sharing the flowers from his lovely gardens with other people, particularly hospital patients, who may have no close relatives or friends in the city and who normally receive few bouquets.

Ever since the Colonist's "share the flowers" plan started nearly two weeks ago Mr. Diminvatz has been able to give his flowers to shut-ins.

He hasn't missed a "share the flowers" collection yet. Regardless of whether pick-ups were being confined mainly to Oak Bay, Saanich or View Royal, or some other locality, Mr. Diminvatz had flowers to offer.

"I think it's a very good idea to cheer up the sick people," he said yesterday of the Colonist plan, "particularly those with no relatives or friends. To them it means more than it does to anyone else."

TOURIST ATTRACTION

His extensive gardens are so beautiful that sight-seeing buses make a regular practice of stopping outside his home.

Because of "share the flowers" hospital patients as well as tourists are now able to enjoy the beauty of his blooms.

Mr. Diminvatz added his flowers as usual yesterday to the generous offerings of gardeners living in View Royal, Esquimalt, Victoria West and the Gorge.

The bountiful bright-hued collection was distributed among thankful patients in the TB pavilions at St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals.

GENEROUS DONORS

Gardeners who contributed to the collection include Mrs. G. R. Reynolds, 295 View Royal; Mrs. E. Hemmingsen, 124 Maddock East; Mrs. R. Chandler, 19 Eaton; Mrs. H. Rutherford, 229 Island Highway;

Mrs. W. A. Sharp, 1368 Esquimalt Road; Mrs. L. Fieldhouse, 819 Colville; Mrs. J. Baxter, 454 Sturdee; Mrs. T. Crosland, 455 Sturdee.

The Empress Hotel; Miss A. Gerrard, 855 Fleming; Mrs. J. C. Hibbard, Admiral's House, HMC Dockyard; Mrs. L. J. Fuller, 376 Kinver; Mrs. C. Palliser, 360 Lampson; Mrs. A. Knowles, 843 Old Esquimalt Road; Mrs. H. F. Bristow, 623 Head; Mrs. W. Curtes, 1181 Old Esquimalt Road; Mrs. W. S. Duncan, 837 Old Esquimalt Road.

The following drivers volunteered to collect yesterday's flowers: Mrs. A. C. Jones, 2775 Murray Drive; Mrs. H. M. Ronson, 460 Kipling; J. R. Grant; Mrs. F. Dewhurst, 912 Linden.

Civil Service Asked To Back Up Claims

Premier Bennett and the provincial cabinet will consider a request for higher wages made this week by the B.C. Government Employees Association (TLC).

A delegation from the employees' association met the cabinet with requests for a wage survey and revision of hours of work.

At an executive meeting of the association in Vancouver yesterday president Carl Hauck outlined the cabinet's reaction to the requests.

The cabinet asked the association to submit further statistics in its claim for wage-scales "more in line with those paid by better-class employers elsewhere," Mr. Hauck said.

SYMPATHETIC

The government was sympathetic to a general five-day 40-hour week provided it would not increase costs or reduce service to the public, he said.

The government considers the Civil Service Act provides adequate arbitration machinery for appeal of employee grievances, but delegates stated there [illegible] means of making a final appeal to an impartial body.

At present, government office staffs work a five-day, 40-hour week. Other employees are on a five-and-one-half day, 44-hour week.

Want To See Them Repeated

Parents Praise Colonist Swim Plan

Parents of youngsters enrolled in the Colonist's free learn-to-swim classes have warm praise for the current summer program and would like to [illegible] it repeated next year.

"It's a wonderful thing for the paper to give children a chance to swim," commented Vernon A. Ridgeway, 2642 Dalhousie. "They can't learn too young."

His son, Bryan, 8, is taking the course.

M. Ferguson, 3190 Douglas, declared himself "all in favor" of the Colonist's learn-to-swim program.

"I'd like to see it go down the ladder with the rest of my family," he said.

Mr. Ferguson has two young children who weren't old enough to enroll this summer. His nine-year-old daughter, Brenda, is making good progress in the current classes.

Mrs. Dorothy Carlson, 3000 Quadra, said her daughter Joyce, also nine, is enjoying the classes and [illegible] learned much.

"I tried to teach her myself last year," she added, "but I didn't have very much success."

Mrs. Carlson believes the Colonist's learn-to-swim classes are a public service and would like to see them carried on again next summer.

"The younger they are [illegible] better it is for them," observed Mrs. Ivan Coyle, 403 Hillside, underlining the value of the classes for children.

Her 12-year-old son, Jimmie, is taking the course and Mrs. Coyle would like [illegible] her two young daughters have a chance to enroll in a similar course next summer.

"It's a wortwhile plan," said Mrs. James Tarbet, 3251 Linwood. "I would like to see it repeated again next year."

Stanley Evans, 669 Ralph, also praised the plan.

Mrs. A. T. Paul, 340 Robertson, said free swimming classes for youngsters are a very good idea.

"You never know when they will get into difficulties [illegible] a course like this will help them," she said.

Old French Recipe For Green Salad

Here's the salad choice of a lady who is keenly interested in everything that Canadian housewives purchase, Mrs. H. [illegible] Consumers' Association of Canada [illegible]

"With the wealth of our summer fields and gardens bringing the year's best fruits and vegetables to our kitchens, this is no time for 'fancy' salads in my family. In Canada's growing season our favorite salad is one on which you can ring a score of changes. It is the old French salad my French (from France) father-in-law taught me to make.

To make it, take two kinds of lettuce if obtainable; quartered, peeled tomatoes; thin rings of [illegible] [illegible] taste and [illegible] fingers of unpeeled cucumbers cut in bite-sized chunks. Add chopped chives, parsley and tarragon if you have it in your garden. Boil an egg 1 minute, break over the salad and dress it with sufficient French dressing to coat each lettuce leaf thoroughly [illegible] as we say in French Canada, the lettuce is slightly wilted. Serve immediately [illegible] and as chilled as possible.

"The dressing is the usual one: Two tablespoons of good vinegar, salt, pepper, sugar, a speck paprika and mustard [illegible] and 3 [illegible] tablespoons of olive oil. We keep a large jar of this always [illegible] grated cheese or garlic rubbed on a crust of bread and dropped in the salad. [illegible] cooked cauliflower flowerets, also some canned mushrooms are all good additions to this salad but must be marinated first."

The Soft Touch!

Especially flattering basic jacket dress is a treasure because its simplicity is needed in a season of prints. Note wide range of sizes.

Prairie Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, 1118 Tolmie Avenue, have left Victoria for a holiday in Winnipeg, during which they will attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Pat Dow, in early August.

Miss Bari Houston Bride Of William A. Robinson

Candles shed a soft glow over pastel gladioli, lilies and Esther Reid daisies to form a lovely setting for the marriage last evening of Barrithel Gordon (Bari) Houston and William Alexander Robinson. Rev. Mon. A. J. Waters performed the ceremony in First United Church, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Houston, 1164 Thurlow Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Robinson, 3?59 Cook Street.

Traditional wedding music was played at the organ by Mr. Malcolm Hamilton and guests were ushered to pews marked with nosegays of pink and white carnations and Esther Reid daisies by Mr. Art Green, Mr. Jim Bowles and Mr. Hilliard Leighton.

The tall, brown-haired bride made a regal picture in her floor-length gown, the looped skirt fashioned of pointed tiers of nylon misted tulle, each tier touched with embroidered scrolls centred with rhinestones, and the strapless bodice pleated and crossover, finished with the same scroll motif. She wore a jacket of creamy chantilly lace featuring stand-up collar and lily-point sleeves, and her scalloped embroidered veil of pure silk illusion cascaded from a fluted chantilly lace cap trimmed with pearl and mother-of-pearl sequins. Her jewelry was an heirloom diamond brooch belonging to her mother, and her arm bouquet was formed of deep red rapture roses surrounded with white gladioli.

Miss Laura Lundin of Vancouver, maid of honor for her niece, and Mrs. Jack Palmer, bridesmatron, chose waltz-length, crinolined gowns of ice blue taffeta, with shrug jackets over the strapless bodices. Their bandeaux and crescent bouquets were of pink gladioli and small blue flowers.

Bridesmatron Mrs. Kenneth Nuttall and bridesmaid Miss Lowrie Mobley wore waltz-length gowns of pink, the antique taffeta bodices styled with sweetheart necklines and the skirts of nylon tulle over taffeta. Cream gladioli and small blue flowers formed their bandeaux and crescent bouquets.

Miss Brenda Robinson, sister of the groom, and Miss Carolyn Speakman, flower girls, were gowned in pink and blue embossed nylon respectively, the yokes embroidered with seed pearls. They had bandeaux and baskets of pastel sweet peas and stephanotis. All wore mitts to match their gowns.

Best man was Mr. Kenneth Nuttal.

At the reception at the Golden Slipper, guests were welcomed by the bride's mother, wearing French blue chantilly lace over taffeta with pink and black accessories and pink rose corsage, and the groom's mother in pink lace over taffeta, pink and white accessories, and white carnation corsage.

The three-tier white and silver wedding cake was topped with pink sweetheart roses and flanked with shaded pink carnations and white candles in silver holders. Mr. H. E. Macdonald proposed the bridal toast.

After a honeymoon in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will live at the Birkwood Arms Apartments, 930 Southgate Street. The bride traveled in a champagne-toned linen sheath dress and matching jacket with mandarin collar, three-quarter sleeves, and pearl and rhinestone trim on the peplum, a navy cashmere coat, champagne straw plateau hat, champagne shoes trimmed with rhinestones, champagne leather purse and navy gloves. She had a rose-mauve orchid corsage.

Engagement of Interest

An engagement of interest is announced today by Mr. and Mrs. William F. Lloyd, 1815 Fort Street, foretelling the marriage of their daughter, Valerie Diane, to Charles Jeffrey Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Phillips, 112 Prince Edward Drive. The wedding will take place August 21 at 2:30 p.m. at St. John's Anglican Church. Miss Lloyd has asked Miss Joyce Stewart and Miss Margaret Savory to be bridesmaids, and Miss Muriel Kerr to be flower girl.—(Photo of Miss Lloyd by Leonard Holmes and Mr. Phillips by Robert Fort.)

B.E.G. Souvenirs Flood Vancouver Stores

By DEE LAVOIE

VANCOUVER — If you can label it British Empire Games and stamp a crest on it, you can sell it as a souvenir today in Vancouver.

Almost every store in the downtown area is draped with flags and bunting and most feature "Welcome to the BEG" signs. Some of the larger department stores have spectacular displays including big models of the Empire Stadium and almost life-size models of athletes as well as crests of the competing countries.

Souvenirs include both the usual pennants, cushion covers and badges and some items that never were souvenirs before.

An official games lapel badge costs $1, and other smaller lapel crests in bronze or silver are 39 cents. A key chain the same is also 39 cents. A variety of crests is on sale, too.

Pennants come in any size. Flags are being featured, with silk flags of each of the Commonwealth countries at $1.25 and you can choose from Canada, India, South Africa, Great Britain, Pakistan, Australia and New Zealand.

Clothing souvenirs start with the inevitable tee shirt, which comes with the official crest at $2.50 and with an unofficial design at $1.95. Long-sleeved sweat shirts with the official crest are $3.50.

The BEG crest is stamped on a $1 tie in a choice of colors, and large colorful silk kerchiefs printed with a map of Vancouver with each event pictured in its proper location and names of the competing countries sells for $1.98 at one store and $1.95 at another.

If a visitor wants to bone up on what the games are all about, he can invest in "The BEG Story," a 64-page booklet for $1, or an official souvenir book and program for the same price.

Stationers are getting into the spirit of the games by advertising scrap books to collect BEG clippings, at $2.95 for a loose leaf, hard cover model and 75 cents for a bound, limp cover one.

For the smoker, ash trays made like miniature Empire Stadiums are selling at $1.49, and a box of 50 book matches, crested, of course, is 45 cents.

Camera stores are advertising films and cameras to record games events, pointing out that there are no restrictions on amateur photography at the games.

Most unusual souvenir is a rubber elephant head holding a Canadian flag in its trunk. Squeeze a rubber bulb and the trunk pops up and waves the flag.

Only merchants apparently not getting into the act are restaurant owners. A quick survey indicated that none are planning special BEG menus or dishes.

Vancouver streets were crowded yesterday as crowds arrived for the opening ceremonies at 8 p.m. last evening.

The women who had expected a hot day and worn cotton dresses were the most comfortable as the sun blazed down. Many of them shed the sweaters with which they had begun the morning. Also noted fashion-wise were many short-sleeved linen suits and cotton dresses, coats in solid styles over [illegible] printed dresses.

Natural straw accessories, hats, purses, and shoes were favored by many of the women visitors.

[illegible] those souvenir items [illegible] from. I didn't see one person on the downtown streets wearing a BEG badge, crest or tie.

Frenchmen Upset By Dior Fashion

PARIS (Reuters) — Frenchmen, especially brassiere manufacturers, were perturbed Friday as they discussed Christian Dior's latest fashion bombshell which reportedly is aimed at abolishing the female bosom.

[illegible] couture made it clear that he was out to revise the flat-chested styles of the 1920s when he unveiled the "H-line" at his winter collection Thursday.

This, Dior explained blandly, was the "H-line." The parallel lines of the H represented the straight silhouette, he pointed out, and the crossbar was the point around the hips where blouse met skirt.

FATH'S S-LINE

Jacques Fath, another of Paris' fashion stars, caused more apprehension Friday when he introduced his new S-line. This too features a flattened but not obliterated bust. The S is evident at the top of the silhouette, clinging close to the stomach and hip in front, and blousing out full in back.

French newspapers had a field day commenting on the new bustlines.

"Poor Gina Lollobrigida," said Aurore, in a reference to the busty Italian movie star. "Christian Dior has decreed the end of the female bosom."

First male reaction was a mixture of [illegible] disgust, dismay and amusement in that order.

Nightclub impressario Rene Dubois commented:

"The French woman has always been proud of her bosom and not ashamed to show it. I think it's a crime for a girl with a good figure to hide it in the dark."

Brassiere manufacturer Maurice Rosenbaum said despairingly that he "can't believe that women want to return to the ugly fashions of the 1920s.

"It certainly will affect our business if the fad really catches on," he added.

Some fashion experts said they believed that Dior's bust line innovation is too extreme. But they said it may win general approval with modifications.

Others predicted that the "H look" would meet with the same failure as Dior's attempt to raise hemlines a year ago.

Several predicted that Fath's idea of a deflated but not completely flattened bosom might become the major trend in 1955.

Paris Says Long Line Stylish

PARIS (Reuters) — The second day's showing in the fashion capital Wednesday established the long, moulded torso line as a leading winter trend.

It appears this will not be a revolutionary season but there is a radical departure from any preconceived ideas about shirt waist or high-waisted silhouettes as pacesetters.

The long, caged "midriff look" is in. And there are suggestions of lowered waistlines in fullness or gores which are introduced at the hipline.

The bidding

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 N T	Pass
2 ♡	Dbl	Pass	3 ◇
Pass	Pass	Dbl	All pass

West's initial pass was a trap. He hoped that the vulnerable opponents might get too high and they did. His pass also made his next double a penalty double since West had failed to double at his first opportunity as he would have for a takeout. West argued, without rebuttal, that his double was the correct bid. But it was not the right one with the particular East who was his partner at the time.

East had obligingly made up the game for three better players, apologizing in advance for the fact that he was not in their class, and also that he was a little rusty. Under these circumstances, West could have foreseen clearly that his partner might become confused and take the double out, especially as it was likely that he held at least one long minor suit.

Against two hearts, West would lead the king of spades. Assume that South wins and returns a diamond—after all, he doesn't have much that looks more attractive. West runs in with the ace and leads the queen of spades. Next he cashes the ace of clubs and leads another high spade, ruffed by North and overruffed by East. West trumps the club return and leads a low spade for East to trump. East puts back another club and West trumps, exiting with the nine of hearts. West must still make his queen of hearts and his high spade, setting the opponents four tricks. Doubled that would have been 1,100 points. Undoubled it would still have been a pleasant and welcome 400. Much better, we must admit, than the 500 point loss he paid when East managed to go off three tricks at three diamonds against the opening lead of the seven of diamonds from South.

Here was a case for the philosophy of the late S. J. Simon, one of England's greatest players. "Play for the best result possible," he advised, "not the best possible result." He had in mind partners like East, of course.

Schoolgirl May Attempt Chadwick's Swim Route

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn [illegible] Toronto schoolgirl swimmer who beat top men and women competitors in the Atlantic City marathon swim last Monday, may try to swim across Lake Ontario, swimming coach Gus Ryder of the Lakeshore Swimming Club said Friday.

The Canadian National Exhibition has offered [illegible] swimmer Florence Chadwick [illegible] to complete the 32-mile across-the-lake swim early in September, but her contract stipulates that she have no competition.

Mr. Ryder some time ago asked CNE officials to let Canadian swimmers compete against Miss Chadwick at the swim, but was refused.

"Who wants to see Florence Chadwick when you've got the greatest woman swimmer in the world right on your door step?" Mr. Ryder said.

Marilyn placed seventh in the Atlantic City marathon, less than 10 minutes behind the leaders, and she was the first woman to cross the finish line.

TV Talk

BY ROY PARRETT

CBC cameras will cover today's swimming and track and field events at the British Empire Games in Vancouver.

A two-and-a-half hour actuality telecast from Empire Stadium will be seen on CBUT, starting at 2:30 this afternoon.

A summary of the day's events will be seen on CBUT tonight from 8 to 9 p.m.

The evening telecast will also be seen in Eastern Canada by a circuitous route totalling some 2,750 miles via Seattle, Portland, Sacramento, Salt Lake City, Denver, Chicago and Buffalo.

The TV hookup is the longest to date for a live telecast.

* * *

Gold Cup Races: It's unfortunate that Seattle's Gold Cup Regatta and the British Empire Games are being held at the same time. Both events are well worth watching.

Things get complicated next Saturday when the running of the Miracle Mile takes place in Vancouver at the same time that the Gold Cup Races are under way.

[illegible] carry the telecast of the race between Australia's Jack Landy and England's Roger Bannister, starting at about 2 p.m.

KOMO-TV will carry the race [illegible] conflict with the second heat of the Gold Cup. Otherwise a kinescope recording will be shown after the boat race.

The Vancouver race will be seen on Eastern Canadian TV stations and on 85 NBC stations in the United States.

Programs: Watch Sunday's column for a discussion of program listings.

Don't miss the B.E.G. events on CBUT, starting at 2:30 this afternoon . . . Mr. Wizard investigates common gasses for the children on KOMO-TV at [illegible] . . . The National Film Board documentary Test Pilot is On The Spot on CBUT at [illegible].

A summary of the day's events is slated for B.E.G. Report on CBUT at [illegible] . . . Tommy Dorsey [illegible] orchestras [illegible] on Stage Show on channel [illegible] . . . Land of Destiny on KING-TV at 9:30 is about homesteaders in California.

KING-TV's double feature at [illegible] is Two [illegible] Worlds and Texas, Brooklyn and Heaven, starring Guy Madison and Diana Lynn.

KTNT-TV is showing Behind The Mask at 11, and Chinese Cat, a "Charlie Chan" adventure at midnight.

Langford Honors 'Grand Old Lady'

Langford's "Grand Old Lady" was honored at the Langford Fair last night for more than 40 years of community work. Miss L. M. A. Savory was presented with a life membership in the Community Club. Nothing was too good for her yesterday, and shown offering her flowers, for which she has a city-wide reputation, are left to right: Mrs. Margaret Hall, fair manager Art Kiteley, and Mrs. F. E. "Bunny" Baker, who took top honors in the horticulture section at the fair. (See story on Page 17.)

Daredevil Defies Death To Shoot Niagara Rapids

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Major Lloyd Hill shot the dangerous Niagara rapids Friday in a steel barrel.

After the run through the gorge, he opened the lid of the gleaming 540-pound cylinder, which was then making wide circles in the swirling green-blue waters of the giant whirlpool.

"I made it," he shouted triumphantly.

Later Ontario provincial police took the daredevil Hill into temporary custody. They released him after questioning the river man about his mile-long trip through the turbulent rapids.

NO CHARGES LAID

No charges were laid although the constable who had taken Hill into custody when he stepped out of his barrel, said a charge would be laid.

After Hill climbed out of his odd craft, the 35-year-old ex-paratrooper was escorted 165 feet up the side of the gorge to a waiting police car, taken to Niagara Falls police station and lodged in a cell.

THOUSANDS CHEER

A cheer went up from thousands of vacationists who gathered to watch Hill's death-defying voyage.

He traveled a mile from the up-river spot where he entered the water. Lying on a webbing hammock, braced by two steel rods, he was shaken by the tremendous buffeting of the rapids. Hill was protected only by a crash-helmet and the barrel's thin shell of 1/16-inch thick steel plates with no inner lining or air space—lightest barrel ever to assail the rapids.

ELUDES COPS

Hill eluded police, who scanned the sides of the rocky gorge with binoculars. They would have attempted to discourage him from taking the ride.

The barrel, eight feet long and three feet wide, had been removed from the Toronto welding shop where it was made this week and lowered down the gorge Thursday night to a spot chosen by Hill and a few friends.

Hills' assistants braved the 70-foot climb down the precipitous rock face in darkness.

NICE TIME OF YEAR

Hill's only explanation for his decision to risk everything on the Niagara was:

"It's a nice time of year to take a barrel trip."

Resolution Raps Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amid tense scenes, Sen. Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vt.) Friday night demanded formal senate condemnation of the conduct of Sen. Joseph McCarthy — and was quickly accused by a McCarthy backer of being an unwitting cat's paw for the Communist party.

The counter-charge was made by Sen. Everett Dirksen (Rep., Ill.) who declared Flanders, the Communists and Americans for Democratic Action form a "great multitude marching with one persecution complex against a humble senator."

Flanders' censure resolution—first of its kind in 25 years—declared McCarthy's tactics tend to "bring the senate into disrepute." And he told the senate that McCarthy can no more be appeased than could Hitler or the Kremlin.

Sen. William Knowland, the Republican senate leader, quickly protested that this was no way to handle the issue; that "what is properly a judicial decision will be made at white heat in a political body."

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) said the approach represented in the Flanders resolution smacked of "mob rule." Though McCarthy has been guilty of "political thuggery," Morse said, the proper way to handle him is to present a real bill of particulars and try him before the bar of the senate before congress adjourns.

Dirksen said Flanders was the unsuspecting victim of forces out to "liquidate" McCarthy.

"Who got in bed with the distinguished senator from Vermont?" Dirksen asked. "The Communist party got in bed with him.

"Senator Flanders and the Daily Worker are on the same side."

Dirksen said Communist publications frequently used the word "Hitler" in connection with McCarthy, and noted that Flanders and Sen. Herbert Lehman (Dem., Lib. N.Y.) also had spoken of Hitler in denouncing McCarthy.

When Dirksen spoke of a great multitude against "a humble senator," there was a burst of laughter from spectators.

McCarthy, grinning, held up thumb and forefinger in an "OK" sign to Dirksen.

Debate on the motion was adjourned.

Senator Flanders' resolution reads:

"Resolved, that the conduct of the senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy, is unbecoming a member of the United States Senate, is contrary to senatorial traditions, and tends to bring the senate into disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

In presenting it Flanders made a speech charging that McCarthy, "however informally," is on the same grounds as "fifth amendment Communists" for having refused to answer questions raised months ago about his integrity and financial affairs.

Avalanche At Banff Kills Four

LAKE LOUISE, Alta. (CP)—Four Mexican tourists were killed Friday when an avalanche swept down Victoria glacier in the Canadian Rockies, about 40 miles northwest of Banff.

Six women and a man were reported in the party engulfed by a huge mass of ice and snow which swept down from the south peak of the glacier.

No names were immediately available as rescue parties recovered four bodies.

A rescue party made contact with the survivors about four hours after the accident happened.

Observers said the Mexicans' rope broke and when the avalanche had passed only three of the seven could be seen.

The party had no guide.

It was believed the party was residing at Banff.

Coldwell Chief Again

EDMONTON (CP)—M. J. Coldwell was elected by acclamation Friday as president and national leader of the CCF party for his seventh consecutive term.

Spectacle Acclaimed

Pomp, Splendor and Dignity Mark Ceremonies in Stadium

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Staff Reporter

EMPIRE STADIUM, VANCOUVER—The 1954 British Empire Games was officially opened last night in a ceremonial spectacle which combined pomp and splendor with dignity.

Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis declared the games open with a brief message of good cheer and congratulations and a message from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

A crowd of 16,000, less than anticipated by B.E.G. officials, didn't fill the huge stadium, but those who were there greeted the hundreds of athletes in the grand parade with cheers.

As each contingent marched past the reviewing stand where Lord Alexander was seated with Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Sir Arthur Porritt, Mayor Fred Hume, and other games officials, the crowd signified its enthusiastic approval and welcome.

BREATHTAKING SCENE

The vari-colored blazers, the band, the military markers, the flags and the pageantry of the massed athletes was breathtaking.

Every group was cheered, from the single weight-lifter entry from Barbados to the 221-strong Canadian team marching in scarlet splendor around the brand new track.

The significance of the common purpose and meeting ground of the athletes from 24 countries was evident while the individuality of custom and race remained. The 10-man Fijian team wore green blazers over their distinctive white native skirts.

The Northern Ireland team got a big hand as they paraded by in green blazers, as might be expected, and a good-natured chuckle ran through the crowd when they were followed by the colored Nigerian team—also in green blazers.

OATH GIVEN

Shortly after Lord Alexander declared the games open, Canada's team captain Bill Parnell mounted the tribune of honor and gave the oath on behalf of all the athletes. With his left hand raised and his right hand holding the Canadian flag he said:

"We declare that we will take part in the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954 in the spirit of true sportmanship recognizing the rules which govern them and desirous of participating in them for the honor of our Commonwealth and Empire and for the glory of sport."

The spectacular RCAF "fly-past" which took place early in the ceremony turned into a real "beat up" as high-tailing Mustangs and Vampires streaked over the new stadium with feet to spare. The roaring aircraft rattled windows and the wail of the Vampires caused the huge crowd to grasp and clasp their hands to their ears.

The ceremony opened at 8 p.m. when a tri-service guard of honor drew up before the reviewing stand and was inspected by Lord Alexander, dressed in a grey business suit and bareheaded.

The smart red-coated RCMP band then led the lengthy parade of athletes into the stadium. They marched past the reviewing stand and main grandstand, each contingent led by a military placard bearer, the placard naming the country from which each team came.

The teams circled the track, then took up positions facing the stand in marked-off sections of the infield, where they stood for the remainder of the ceremony.

During the official opening speech, the blazer-clad flag bearer of each team stood in a large semi-circle facing the royal box where Lord Alexander delivered his opening message.

The special B.E.G. flag then was raised to the top of the stadium flag pole and five-gun field battery fired the B.E.G. salute. On the first salvo a flock of pigeons was released. The birds circled the stadium almost as if they had been rehearsed and then seemed to dip in salute and head off to their homing distinction.

ANTHEM SUNG

After Bill Parnell took the games oath, the 16,000 people rose and sang "God Save the Queen," which was played by the RCMP band.

The parade flag bearers then returned to their teams and the more than 600 athletes marched out of the stadium to the cheers and standing applause of the huge assembly.

The perfect execution of the whole ceremony, the simple dignity of Lord Alexander's words, the meeting in one stadium of representatives of 24 countries, the sincerity of the oath and the Queen's message made the whole ceremony genuinely moving.

One hardened newspaper man who had covered sports in all parts of the world for many years told this reporter that it took a lot to bring a lump to his throat but the B.E.G. ceremony did it.

When the opening ceremony had concluded the crowd was treated to a two-hour military tattoo, a spectacular display of precision band marching, an exciting naval gun race, formation and acrobatic motorcycle riding and the famed RCN sunset ceremony, all of which were witnessed last week by Victorians in the big Esquimalt previews.

Taking part in the complicated display of marching were 180 bandsmen from the bands of HMCS Naden, Princess Patricia Light Infantry, Calgary; the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Barriefield, and the RCAF, Edmonton.

While officials expressed some disappointment with the crowd that turned up for the historic 1954 ceremony, they are confident that the keen competition expected in the biggest B.E.G. yet should keep the turnstiles spinning for the rest of the week.

But the real purpose of the games, the bringing together of national groups from all parts of the Commonwealth and Empire, has begun successfully.

Island Man Dies in Crash

A Vancouver Island man was instantly killed last night when his car went out of control on the Alberni Highway, near Parksville.

Johannes Viking Hannula, aged about 40, of Errington, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Violet Hannula of Victoria.

RCMP said Hannual's car turned over several times after it went out of control.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced by Westwood Funeral Home in Nanaimo.

Games Opened By Alexander

VANCOUVER (CP) Here is a partial text of Lord Alexander's address opening the fifth British Empire Games.

For me, it is both an honor and a pleasure to have been invited to officially open the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954.

Twenty-four years ago, the first of these athletic meetings was held in Canada in 1930. Since then, they have been held in England, Australia and New Zealand, and now once again Canada is the host country.

This year, no less than 24 members of our Commonwealth family have entered teams which I think is a fair measure of the importance and popularity in which these games are held.

Furthermore, this is the first occasion that some of the smaller nations have competed and to them I extend a sincere welcome and express our warm appreciation of their presence among us.

It is occasions such as this, when members of our Commonwealth meet together in friendly rivalry, that the bonds which united us become further strengthened through a greater understanding of each other.

The role that sport can play in cementing friendships and in encouraging comradeship is, of course, immense. And amongst the great sports, none can do this better then that of athletics, which demand a high degree of physical fitness, courage to take punishment and skill in performance. And all this within the strict code of fair play and holding to the rules of the game.

Few deserve the respect and admiration of their fellow men more than the good sportsman. And we should take pride in the knowledge that there is no lack of good sportsmen in our Commonwealth of Nations to whatever race they may belong or from whatever part of the Empire they may come.

The visiting teams of famous athletes and their friends who have come from all parts of the world to see them perform cannot but be impressed by this fine new stadium specially built for the occasion, and the magnificent scenery which surrounds it.

So on behalf of the visitors I should like to express our warm appreciation and sincere congratulations to Mr. Stanley Smith and his staff, together with all those who have helped to organize this grand show. A show which, if I may say so, is an excellent example of Canada's genius for organization.

To the visiting teams of Commonwealth athletes, I can say that we spectators are eagerly looking forward to a great week of good sport and to wish them individually and collectively a happy time, the best of luck and every success.

This morning, since I knew that you would wish it, I sent on your behalf a loyal message to Her Majesty the Queen. I will read what I said:

"On the occasion of the opening of the 'Fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games in Vancouver, the representatives of the 24 Empire countries assembled here—competitors and officials and spectators alike—send Your Majesty their loyal greetings.

"No effort will be spared to fulfil the ideal of these games—the further cementing of the bond of Empire through the medium of sport—and we would wish to convey to Your Majesty our great appreciation of the eagerly awaited arrival of the Duke of Edinburgh in our midst next week."

I am happy to say that Her Majesty has sent a most gracious and inspiring reply, which I will read to you:

"I greatly appreciate message of loyal greetings which you have sent me on behalf of competitors, officials and spectators assembled at the opening of the fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games and the countries taking part in them. Please convey to all gathered at the opening my sincere thanks for their loyal assurances and my best wishes for success in the games. Elizabeth R."

Duke Prefers Scotch

OTTAWA (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh Friday absorbed a small but harmless amount of atomic radiation, flew a Canadian-designed bush plane and drank a scotch-and-water with reporters.

At Canada's atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., the duke peered down a hole in the NRX atomic furnace, from which a small amount of radiation was issuing.

Scientists said this amount of radiation could be stood indefinitely by anyone.

TAKES CONTROL

The duke flew the 120 miles to Chalk River. On the way back he took over the pilot's controls for 30 minutes in a float-equipped Otter, a small bush plane.

After his return, he had tea in the officers' mess at the RCAF station in suburban Rockcliffe and then went to the House of Commons.

There he was met by Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin, Senate Speaker Wishart Robertson and Norman Campbell, president of the parliamentary press gallery.

STAYS LONGER

His schedule called for a 40-minute call on the press gallery but he stayed more than an hour chatting with reporters.

The duke turned down a proffered glass of champagne and had a scotch instead. Some of the reporters drank the champagne.

Friday night, Governor-General Vincent Massey gave a dinner in honor of the duke.

Some 40 guests were invited, including Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe.

Langford Honors 'Grand Old Lady'

Langford's "Grand Old Lady" was honored at the Langford Fair last night for more than 40 years of community work. Miss L. M. A. Savory was presented with a life membership in the Community Club. Nothing was too good for her yesterday, and shown offering her flowers, for which she has a city-wide reputation, are left to right: Mrs. Margaret Hall, fair manager Art Kiteley, and Mrs. F. E. "Bunny" Baker, who took top honors in the horticulture section at the fair. (See story on Page 17.)

Daredevil Defies Death To Shoot Niagara Rapids

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Major Lloyd Hill shot the dangerous Niagara rapids Friday in a steel barrel.

After the run through the gorge, he opened the lid of the gleaming 540-pound cylinder, which was then making wide circles in the swirling green-blue waters of the giant whirlpool.

"I made it," he shouted triumphantly.

Later Ontario provincial police took the daredevil Hill into temporary custody. They released him after questioning the river man about his mile-long trip through the turbulent rapids.

NO CHARGES LAID

No charges were laid although the constable who had taken Hill into custody when he stepped out of his barrel, said a charge would be laid.

After Hill climbed out of his odd craft, the 35-year-old ex-paratrooper was escorted 165 feet up the side of the gorge to a waiting police car, taken to Niagara Falls police station and lodged in a cell.

THOUSANDS CHEER

A cheer went up from thousands of vacationists who gathered to watch Hill's death-defying voyage.

He traveled a mile from the up-river spot where he entered the water. Lying on a webbing hammock, braced by two steel rods, he was shaken by the tremendous buffeting of the rapids. Hill was protected only by a crash-helmet and the barrel's thin shell of 1/16-inch thick steel plates with no inner lining or air space—lightest barrel ever to assail the rapids.

ELUDES COPS

Hill eluded police, who scanned the sides of the rocky gorge with binoculars. They would have attempted to discourage him from taking the ride.

The barrel, eight feet long and three feet wide, had been removed from the Toronto welding shop where it was made this week and lowered down the gorge Thursday night to a spot chosen by Hill and a few friends.

Hills' assistants braved the 70-foot climb down the precipitous rock face in darkness.

NICE TIME OF YEAR

Hill's only explanation for his decision to risk everything on the Niagara was:

"It's a nice time of year to take a barrel trip."

Industrial Failure Hits Better Life

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet press reports Friday indicate that the Kremlin's much-publicized plan to give the Russian people more of the good things of life has hit serious snags.

Front-page editorials in most of the principal Moscow newspapers express concern lest the new drive to boost production of agriculture and consumer goods should be jeopardized by failure of heavy industry to produce sufficient iron and steel.

The iron and steel industry was scored for "serious shortcomings" in output, on the growth of which, says the Soviet newspapers, "the progress of the entire economy depends."

This statement was interpreted here as implying that unless iron and steel output is quickly boosted and maintained at a "safe" level, recent promises of a better life for the Soviet people cannot be fully implemented.

Island Man Dies in Crash

A Vancouver Island man was instantly killed last night when his car went out of control on the Alberni Highway, near Parksville.

Johannes Viking Hannula, aged about 40, of Errington, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Violet Hannula of Victoria.

RCMP said Hannual's car turned over several times after it went out of control.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced by Westwood Funeral Home in Nanaimo.

Avalanche At Banff Kills Four

LAKE LOUISE, Alta. (CP)—Four Mexican tourists were killed Friday when an avalanche swept down Victoria glacier in the Canadian Rockies, about 40 miles northwest of Banff.

Six women and a man were reported in the party engulfed by a huge mass of ice and snow which swept down from the south peak of the glacier.

No names were immediately available as rescue parties recovered four bodies.

A rescue party made contact with the survivors about four hours after the accident happened.

Observers said the Mexicans' rope broke and when the avalanche had passed only three of the seven could be seen.

The party had no guide.

It was believed the party was residing at Banff.

Flanders Called Red Cat's-Paw

Senate Asked To Rap McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid tense scenes, Sen. Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vt.) Friday night demanded formal senate condemnation of the conduct of Sen. Joseph McCarthy — and was quickly accused by a McCarthy backer of being an unwitting cat's paw for the Communist party.

The counter-charge was made by Sen. Everett Dirksen (Rep., Ill.) who declared Flanders, the Communists and Americans for Democratic Action form a "great multitude marching with one persecution complex against a humble senator."

Flanders' censure resolution—first of its kind in 25 years—declared McCarthy's tactics tend to "bring the senate into disrepute." And he told the senate that McCarthy can no more be appeased than could Hitler or the Kremlin.

Sen. William Knowland, the Republican senate leader, quickly protested that this was no way to handle the issue; that "what is properly a judicial decision will be made at white heat in a political body."

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) said the approach represented in the Flanders resolution smacked of "mob rule." Though McCarthy has been guilty of "political thuggery," Morse said, the proper way to handle him is to present a real bill of particulars and try him before the bar of the senate before congress adjourns.

OUT TO GET HIM

Dirksen said Flanders was the unsuspecting victim of forces out to "liquidate" McCarthy.

"Who got in bed with the distinguished senator from Vermont?" Dirksen asked. "The Communist party got in bed with him.

"Senator Flanders and the Daily Worker are on the same side."

Dirksen said Communist publications frequently used the word "Hitler" in connection with McCarthy, and noted that Flanders and Sen. Herbert Lehman (Dem., Lib. N.Y.) also had spoken of Hitler in denouncing McCarthy.

When Dirksen spoke of a great multitude against "a humble senator," there was a burst of laughter from spectators.

McCarthy, grinning, held up thumb and forefinger in an "OK" sign to Dirksen.

Debate on the motion was adjourned.

Senator Flanders' resolution reads:

"Resolved, that the conduct of the senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy, is unbecoming a member of the United States Senate, is contrary to senatorial traditions, and tends to bring the senate into disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

In presenting it Flanders made a speech charging that McCarthy, "however informally," is on the same grounds as "fifth amendment Communists" for having refused to answer questions raised months ago about his integrity and financial affairs.

Hundreds of Athletes Parade in Big Stadium

Colorfully-Garbed Teams Hailed by Crowd of 16,000

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Staff Reporter

EMPIRE STADIUM, VANCOUVER—The 1954 British Empire Games was officially opened last night in a ceremonial spectacle which combined pomp and splendor with dignity.

Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis declared the games open with a brief message of good cheer and congratulations and a message from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

A crowd of 16,000, less than anticipated by B.E.G. officials, didn't fill the huge stadium, but those who were there greeted the hundreds of athletes in the grand parade with cheers.

As each contingent marched past the reviewing stand where Lord Alexander was seated with Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Sir Arthur Porritt, Mayor Fred Hume, and other games officials, the crowd signified its enthusiastic approval and welcome.

BREATHTAKING SCENE

The vari-colored blazers, the band, the military markers, the flags and the pageantry of the massed athletes was breathtaking.

Every group was cheered, from the single weight-lifter entry from Barbados to the 221-strong Canadian team marching in scarlet splendor around the brand new track.

The significance of the common purpose and meeting ground of the athletes from 24 countries was evident while the individuality of custom and race remained. The 10-man Fijian team wore green blazers over their distinctive white native skirts.

The Northern Ireland team got a big hand as they paraded by in green blazers, as might be expected, and a good-natured chuckle ran through the crowd when they were followed by the colored Nigerian team—also in green blazers.

OATH GIVEN

Shortly after Lord Alexander declared the games open, Canada's team captain Bill Parnell mounted the tribune of honor and gave the oath on behalf of all the athletes. With his left hand raised and his right hand holding the Canadian flag he said:

"We declare that we will take part in the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954 in the spirit of true sportmanship recognizing the rules which govern them and desirous of participating in them for the honor of our Commonwealth and Empire and for the glory of sport."

The spectacular RCAF "fly-past" which took place early in the ceremony turned into a real "beat up" as high-tailing Mustangs and Vampires streaked over the new stadium with feet to spare. The roaring aircraft rattled windows and the wail of the Vampires caused the huge crowd to grasp and clasp their hands to their ears.

The ceremony opened at 8 p.m. when a tri-service guard of honor drew up before the reviewing stand and was inspected by Lord Alexander, dressed in a grey business suit and bareheaded.

The smart red-coated RCMP band then led the lengthy parade of athletes into the stadium. They marched past the reviewing stand and main grandstand, each contingent led by a military placard bearer, the placard naming the country from which each team came.

The teams circled the track, then took up positions facing the stand in marked-off sections of the infield, where they stood for the remainder of the ceremony.

During the official opening speech, the blazer-clad flag bearer of each team stood in a large semi-circle facing the royal box where Lord Alexander delivered his opening message.

The special B.E.G. flag then was raised to the top of the stadium flag pole and five-gun field battery fired the B.E.G. salute. On the first salvo a flock of pigeons was released. The birds circled the stadium almost as if they had been rehearsed and then seemed to dip in salute and head off to their homing distinction.

ANTHEM SUNG

After Bill Parnell took the games oath, the 16,000 people rose and sang "God Save the Queen," which was played by the RCMP band.

The parade flag bearers then returned to their teams and the more than 600 athletes marched out of the stadium to the cheers and standing applause of the huge assembly.

The perfect execution of the whole ceremony, the simple dignity of Lord Alexander's words, the meeting in one stadium of representatives of 24 countries, the sincerity of the oath and the Queen's message made the whole ceremony genuinely moving.

One hardened newspaper man who had covered sports in all parts of the world for many years told this reporter that it took a lot to bring a lump to his throat but the B.E.G. ceremony did it.

When the opening ceremony had concluded the crowd was treated to a two-hour military tattoo, a spectacular display of precision band marching, an exciting naval gun race, formation and acrobatic motorcycle riding and the famed RCN sunset ceremony, all of which were witnessed last week by Victorians in the big Esquimalt previews.

Taking part in the complicated display of marching were 180 bandsmen from the bands of HMCS Naden, Princess Patricia Light Infantry, Calgary; the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Barriefield, and the RCAF, Edmonton.

While officials expressed some disappointment with the crowd that turned up for the historic 1954 ceremony, they are confident that the keen competition expected in the biggest B.E.G. yet should keep the turnstiles spinning for the rest of the week.

But the real purpose of the games, the bringing together of national groups from all parts of the Commonwealth and Empire, has begun successfully.

Coldwell Chief Again

EDMONTON (CP) — M. J. Coldwell was elected by acclamation Friday as president and national leader of the CCF party for his seventh consecutive term.

Games Opened By Alexander

VANCOUVER (CP)—Here is a partial text of Lord Alexander's address opening the fifth British Empire Games.

For me, it is both an honor and a pleasure to have been invited to officially open the British Empire and Commonwealth Games of 1954.

Twenty-four years ago, the first of these athletic meetings was held in Canada in 1930. Since then, they have been held in England, Australia and New Zealand, and now once again Canada is the host country.

This year, no less than 24 members of our Commonwealth family have entered teams which I think is a fair measure of the importance and popularity in which these games are held.

Furthermore, this is the first occasion that some of the smaller nations have competed and to them I extend a sincere welcome and express our warm appreciation of their presence among us.

It is occasions such as this, when members of our Commonwealth meet together in friendly rivalry, that the bonds which united us become further strengthened through a greater understanding of each other.

The role that sport can play in cementing friendships and in encouraging comradeship is, of course, immense. And amongst the great sports, none can do this better than that of athletics, which demand a high degree of physical fitness, courage to take punishment and skill in performance. And all this within the strict code of fair play and holding to the rules of the game.

Few deserve the respect and admiration of their fellow men more than the good sportsman. And we should take pride in the knowledge that there is no lack of good sportsmen in our Commonwealth of Nations to whatever race they may belong or from whatever part of the Empire they may come.

The visiting teams of famous athletes and their friends who have come from all parts of the world to see them perform cannot but be impressed by this fine new stadium specially built for the occasion, and the magnificent scenery which surrounds it.

So on behalf of the visitors I should like to express our warm appreciation and sincere congratulations to Mr. Stanley Smith and his staff, together with all those who have helped to organize this grand show. A show which, if I may say so, is an excellent example of Canada's genius for organization.

To the visiting teams of Commonwealth athletes, I can say that we spectators are eagerly looking forward to a great week of good sport and to wish them individually and collectively a happy time, the best of luck and every success.

This morning, since I knew that you would wish it, I sent on your behalf a loyal message to Her Majesty the Queen. I will read what I said:

"On the occasion of the opening of the Fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games in Vancouver, the representatives of the 24 Empire countries assembled here — competitors and officials and spectators alike — send Your Majesty their loyal greetings.

"No effort will be spared to fulfil the ideal of these games — the further cementing of the bond of Empire through the medium of sport —and we would wish to convey to Your Majesty our great appreciation of the eagerly awaited arrival of the Duke of Edinburgh in our midst next week."

I am happy to say that Her Majesty has sent a most gracious and inspiring reply, which I will read to you:

"I greatly appreciate message of loyal greetings which you have sent me on behalf of competitors, officials and spectators assembled at the opening of the fifth British Empire and Commonwealth Games and the countries taking part in them. Please convey to all gathered at the opening my sincere thanks for their loyal assurances and my best wishes for success in the games. Elizabeth R."

Duke Prefers Scotch

OTTAWA (CP)—The Duke of Edinburgh Friday absorbed a small but harmless amount of atomic radiation, flew a Canadian-designed bush plane and drank a scotch-and-water with reporters.

At Canada's atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., the duke peered down a hole in the NRX atomic furnace, from which a small amount of radiation was issuing.

Scientists said this amount of radiation could be stood indefinitely by anyone.

TAKES CONTROL

The duke flew the 120 miles to Chalk River. On the way back he took over the pilot's controls for 30 minutes in a float-equipped Otter, a small bush plane.

After his return, he had tea in the officers' mess at the RCAF station in suburban Rockcliffe and then went to the House of Commons.

There he was met by Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin, Senate Speaker Wishart Robertson and Norman Campbell, president of the parliamentary press gallery.

STAYS LONGER

His schedule called for a 40-minute call on the press gallery but he stayed more than an hour chatting with reporters.

The duke turned down a proffered glass of champagne and had a scotch instead. Some of the reporters drank the champagne.

Friday night, Governor-General Vincent Massey gave a dinner in honor of the duke.

Some 40 guests were invited, including Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe.

No Use Presenting Brief, Says Patton

City Solicitor A. J. Patton advised council yesterday it is little use for the city to present a brief to the Public Utilities Commission opposing the B.C. Electric Railway Co. application for increase in bus fares.

Council voted two weeks ago to oppose the increases.

In a letter to council yesterday, Mr. Patton said he and City Manager Cecil Wyatt had been told by PUC chairman Percy George that commission studies of B.C. Electric finances could not be examined by the city before the hearing August 5.

"The commission chairman," stated Mr. Patton, "said the commission would not have a report until after the hearing, it could do nothing to help the city at this time, nor would it be allowed to do so at a later date, as laid down by its procedure."
